Strong Stand Is Taken By France On Disarmament

In Note to Great Britain, French Government Threats to Scrap Current Negotiations Unless Given Equivalent to Military Alliance in Old Entente Cordiale

Is Reaction To Germany's Reply

By Melvin K. Whiteletter, Associated Press Staff Writer
Paris, April 18.—France threatens in a note to Great Britain to scrap all current disarmament negotiations unless she is given something equivalent to the military alliance in the old Entente Cordiale, it was revealed today.

The threat is expressed in a memorandum, drafted by Premier Gaston Doumergue and foreign Minister Louis Barthou.

It supplements a previous note in which France expressed a desire for new arm "limitation conference," in the thesis that present negotiations have failed.

LL FACTS WANTED
The note frankly says it is useless to argue about conditions until the full truth of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's disarmament programme in Germany is determined.

Germany's "own revelations" of rearmament, the note says, make it impossible to continue discussions of an arm convention based on the idea of German moderation in rearmament.

These revelations are Hitler's assertions and new German budget figures which the French think prove Germany is rearming far beyond general belief, it is added.

THREATENED TO RESIGN
France's strong stand was taken Tuesday at a heated cabinet session. Barthou, who sought to prevent French isolation, feared as a result of a positive stand, threatened to resign in the course of the turbulent meeting.

P. VIA HAVAS
London, April 18.—France's sudden stand on disarmament was the reaction to Germany's reply to Great Britain on the question of the Reich's military budget, The London Times said today.

The Times remarked: "There is no least doubt the attitude of the French government has become singularly firmer since the German reply to the British ultimatum."

Great Britain asked Germany a few days ago to explain the large sums voted in her budget to the army. Many replied she intended to convert the Reichwehr into a short-term army.

The Liberal-Labor opposition did not hide its disappointment and dissatisfaction today with the turn of events have taken.

J. FACTOR'S LEGAL FIGHT COST MUCH

Chicago, April 18.—John Factor, the international speculator, estimated today his fight to escape extradition to England on a stock fraud charge, had cost him something like $2,170,000.

Livestock Market Inquiry Advocated

II Angles Should Be Investigated Across Canada, Says Saskatchewan Minister to Commons Committee

Ottawa, April 18.—Recommending an appointment of a Dominion commission "with adequate producer representation" to inquire into livestock marketing in all its ramifications, a resolution of the Saskatchewan Legislature was placed before the Stevens committee of the Commons today by Hon. W. C. Buckle, Saskatchewan Minister of Agriculture. He gave the committee a wide picture of agricultural conditions in his province, emphasizing his belief in a value of control measures.

An alternative to control of prices of production, he stated, "would be to the maximum, and the adoption of a national policy of effecting an exchange for farm products than has been favored in the past by industrial Canada."

Believe Photo Holds Clue To Kidnapping

"Jafse" Condon Called to Boston to View Picture Thought to Be Mysterious "John" in Lindbergh Case

Associated Press
Boston, April 18.—U.S. Marshal John A. Murphy today asked New York federal authorities to have Dr. John P. Jafse Condon, ransom conveyor in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, viewed here to view a photograph believed to be that of the mysterious "John" who received the ransom money.

Marshall Murphy declined to divulge where the photograph had been obtained.

Dr. Condon gave $50,000 to the stranger in a New York cemetery in what was to have been a step toward ultimate return of the child to its parents, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. The finding of the child's body not far from the New Jersey home of the Lindberghs later revealed that whoever received the money could not have fulfilled his part of the bargain.

Everyone In B.C. Owes $700

Total Public Debt Is $491,000,000, Survey Shows; Costs About $28,000,000 A Year in Interest Alone

Every man, woman and child in British Columbia is indebted to the average amount of approximately $700, in addition to their private liabilities, according to a calculation of public debt figures.

The gross debt of the 694,000 people in British Columbia is estimated to be $491,000,000. It is divided as follows:

Provincial debt	$167,000,000
Municipal debts	142,000,000
Share of national debt	182,000,000
Total	$491,000,000

The share of the national debt is calculated on a population ratio. Annually the people have to pay in interest and sinking fund on these liabilities something like $28,000,000. This is one of the big reasons why governments of all kinds are having much trouble in balancing their budgets. In the case of the Province of British Columbia the debt charges are $11,000,000, or more than half the total anticipated revenue. In the municipalities the proportion is not quite as great but debt costs are quite close to one-third of the entire expenditures.

Drastic Salary Cuts Restored

B.C. Mining Engineers Brought in Line With Other Civil Service Pay

All resident engineers of the Provincial Mines Department have had drastic salary cuts made in 1932 restored and their wage reductions placed on the same basis as the rest of the civil service.

Two years ago the engineers had their salaries reduced by about one-third in the interests of economy. By order-in-council these cuts were restored and the salaries placed on similar schedule with other government salaries as to economies, which makes the reductions about 12 per cent.

At the same time appointment of A. Richmond, assistant resident engineer at Victoria, as resident mining division, was announced.

Mr. Richmond succeeds George A. Clothier, who resigned.

Change in Set-up Reduces Number of District Engineers By Two-thirds; Top-heavy and Costly Organization Done Away With; Details of Switches

Complete reorganization of the Public Works Department field staff, to take effect immediately, was announced this morning by Hon. Frank M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works.

Chief features of the change are: Reduction from twelve engineering districts and one sub-district to five districts and one sub-district in the general organization.

A consequent cut in the number of district engineers. Switching around of several officials who have been in one district for a long time.

And economies conservatively estimated at $30,000 a year in the overhead of the department.

The former organization is regarded as top-heavy and too costly, and the change has been made in the interests of both economy and efficiency, the minister said.

Under the new scheme the titles of "public works engineer" and "road superintendent" will be eliminated, and each district will be under one head, with the title of "district engineer."

Officials who will leave the service through the reorganization, terminating office at the end of May, receiving six weeks' notice.

NEW ORGANIZATION
Following is a summary of the new principal set-up:

District 1—H. Swan, district engineer; headquarters, Victoria; covers all Vancouver Island Mackenzie district.

District 2—H. C. Anderson, district engineer; headquarters, New Westminster; covers Chilliwack, Delta, New Westminster, Dewdney from Cheate to Hope and south of the river.

District 3—E. H. Verner, district engineer; headquarters, Vancouver; covers North Vancouver, Burnaby, Dewdney to Hope, and all public works matters in Vancouver city and Greater Vancouver area.

District 4—Major R. M. Taylor, district engineer; headquarters, Kamloops; covers Kamloops, Salmon Arm, Revelstoke, North and South Okanagan, Yale, Similkameen and Grand Forks-Greenwood.

CITY RAISES RELIEF GRANT

Unstated Increase to Be Made to Children and Other Classes Here

An increase in the relief allowance to children and certain other classes deriving direct aid from the city will be put in force immediately as the result of action taken at the special meeting of the city relief committee today.

The actual amount by which the allowances would be raised was not divulged, but it was understood it would be appreciable.

Officials who were present at the provincial government a larger percentage for food for certain classes. The amount by which the sum was raised by the government, however, did not at that time give an extra dollar. Since then the dollar has been absorbed by the provincial government and inference was given that the city allowance would be increased.

Under the legislation set up by the previous administration the total of $2.50 was allowed for children, but the city at that time gave an extra dollar. Since then the dollar has been absorbed by the provincial government and inference was given that the city allowance would be increased.

At today's meeting delegates of the unemployed who presented a resolution to the council at its meeting last week, were given a hearing. The resolution was given very favorable consideration. E. W. Snowden, city relief officer, stated.

Progress Of British Interests U.S. People

Budget Brought Down Yesterday Indicates Gains Firmly Based, Say New York Papers

Canadian Press
New York, April 18.—"Not only is British prestige higher than it has been in many years, but Great Britain has made much genuine progress along the road to economic recovery," said The New York Herald-Tribune today in commenting on the budget statement of Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain in the Parliament at Westminster yesterday.

"Revival there has not been meteoric, but it has been sizeable and it has been sound," the paper continued.

The Herald-Tribune finds the budget interesting chiefly because it demonstrates "that a nation can adhere to time-tested fiscal practices and still attain a substantial measure of recovery."

"While our own government's chief problem at the moment is the fantastic one of trying desperately and vainly to spend the billions of dollars that an unprecedentedly lavish Congress has voted, the chief concern of the British Finance Minister is that of increasing receipts during the next twelve months."

As for the surplus for the year just ended—a surplus amounting to some $150,000,000, this will be applied in typically orthodox British fashion to reduction of the national debt.

New Ten Per Cent Tax On Gold When Over $30 An Ounce Is Budget Plan

Finance Minister Asks Parliament to Approve Levy on Precious Metal Sent to Mint or Exported, to Offset loss in Sugar Revenue; No Change in Income Tax or Sales Tax; Deficit on Government's Operations for Last Year Put at $135,200,000

Recovery Started, States Minister

Ottawa, April 18.—A deficit of $135,200,000 for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1934, an improvement by $22,500,000 over the previous year was revealed to an expectant House of Commons this afternoon by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in the course of his budget speech in the Commons this afternoon.

The tax will not operate when the price of gold is such that payment of the tax will reduce its value to less than $30 per ounce in Canadian currency. It will become effective tomorrow, April 19, and in consequence of its application the mint-handling charges on gold will be removed.

The tax on sugar, reduced to one-cent a pound with the exception of glucose and grape sugar, which will be one-half cent a pound, will be effective July 1.

INCOME TAX SAME
No important changes are made in the income war tax and the sales tax remains at 6 per cent.

The following is an unofficial summary of the taxation and customs changes:

Income War Tax Act:
No changes are made in the schedules of income tax rates and exemptions. A number of minor changes are made primarily to remove existing inequalities, effective for the 1933 taxation period.

Sales tax:
The existing sales tax of 6 per cent is to remain unchanged. The only addition to the exempt list are bakers' cake and pies, some sugar substitutes, and milk albumen, effective April 19.

Excise taxes:
The tax on sugar is reduced to one-cent a pound, and on glucose and grape sugar to one-half cent. Other minor changes include a reduction of the tax on cigarette tubes from four to three cents a hundred. A lower rate from 8.50 to 7.50 cents in the rate on sparkling wines, and a change in the stamp tax on beer from $1 or less from three cents to one cent. Under the 3 per cent special excise tax the rate to be cut in half on imports entitled to tariff benefit of the British preferential tariff.

TO MAKE UP LOSS
To replace the revenue lost through the reduction in the sugar tax, a new tax of 10 per cent is levied on the value in Canadian currency in gold deposited at the Mint or exported. The tax will not operate to reduce the amount paid for gold below $30 an ounce.

These changes are effective April 19, except in the case of sugar where the effective date is July 1.

TAX MALT

The most important change in excise duties is a consolidation of the existing three-cent-per-pound duty on malt and the 12-cent gallonage tax on beer into a single excise duty of 7 1/2 cents per pound on malt. Other adjustments in direct or indirect levies on beer are largely the result of this revision, effective July 1.

DUTIES REVISED

Although fewer than seventy-five items are affected, the tariff amendments are of wide public interest and show a general downward trend. Horizontal reductions in rates have been made, inter alia, on titanium oxide, heavy hollow forgings, glass banks for processing and jewelry findings, as well as on parts for newspaper presses, shotguns and steel pulleys.

ON FREE LIST

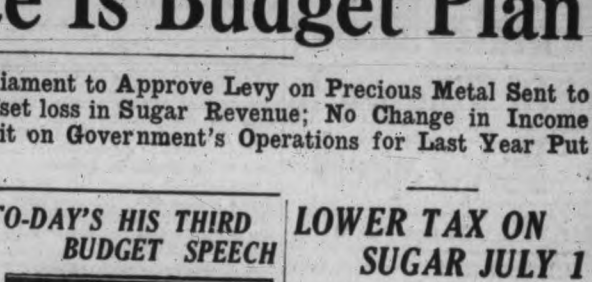

Julie yarns, wide steel plate, salt cake, certain crude oil, impregnated canvas, spun rayon yarns, filter cloth and ceramic stains are reduced in rate under the British preferential tariff, while a larger number of chemical commodities, including gum arabic, aluminum leaf, flotation reagents, and others, are placed on the free list.

Minister Informs Commons of Canada's Cheapest Short Term Financing

Ottawa, April 18.—The lowest cost short-term financing in the history of the government was negotiated in the sale today of $15,000,000 in Dominion treasury bills of two series, at an average cost of 2.41 and 2.71 per cent. The bills were offered for public tenders which were opened Tuesday, and the sale was announced today by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in the course of his budget speech.

The total net debt was estimated at $2,731,698,000 as on March 31, 1934, compared with $2,599,000,000 on the same date last year.

The grand total of all revenues was $324,013,000, compared with $324,013,000, compared with $324,013,000.

Labor Protests Presence of Force at Island Logging Camps

Vancouver, April 18.—A protest against Provincial Police forces being stationed at logging camps where strike-breaking loggers are employed is to be wired to the provincial government by the Vancouver and New Westminster District Trades and Labor Council. This action had been decided on today following presentation of a request for such action made by F. Lundstrum, representing the Lumber Workers' Industrial Union, Lundstrum, in soliciting the council's support, said there were forty-seven provincial policemen at Great Central Lake.

"We are willing," said he, "to fight strike breakers, but we do not want to fight the government. We merely let the loggers arrange a settlement with the employers. All the loggers are not available."

TOKIO SPOKESMAN SAYS JAPAN PREPARED TO MEET FORCE WITH FORCE TO PRESERVE PEACE IN EAST ASIA

By Glenn Habb, Associated Press Foreign Staff
Tokio, April 18.—A Foreign Office spokesman said today Japan was prepared to meet force with force, if necessary, to preserve peace in East Asia.

He said in discussing Japan's restate China policy, Nippon will be guided in the application of her policy of responsibility for tranquility in East Asia by the circumstances.

But Japan herself may be compelled to resort to force," the spokesman added, if foreign efforts to "disturb peace in East Asia" are supported forcefully.

It is our responsibility. We must be the judges."

To-day, foreign diplomats rushed to their governments more detailed information concerning the still import of the declaration. That interpretation generally as a "Hands Off China" policy aimed at western nations. They see it as surpassing even the broadest claims made under the Monroe Doctrine.

Grand total $459,398,000 ($531,764,000).

BUSINESS GAINS
The minister sounded a note of optimism at the outset of his speech. This year, for the first time in the course of the depression, he said, it was possible to review the year's operations in terms of business improvement, reviving confidence and expanding revenues.

Mr. Rhodes cited a series of facts in support of his optimism, as follows: The Bureau of Statistics index of the volume of business grew from 67.0 in February of 1933 to 86.4 in February, 1934.

The amount of cheques cashed in chartered banks increased 16 per cent in 1933 over 1932, and 23.4 per cent in the first two months of 1934 over the same months in 1933.

The output of electric power stations increased 24.1 per cent in February, 1934, over the same month in 1933.

CAR LOADINGS
Car loadings in the first twelve weeks of 1934 increased 23.9 per cent over the same period in 1933.

NON-ACTIVE LOANS

"Under the heading 'loans and advances, non-active,' are included amounts paid by way of loan which are treated as non-active and which, being non-interest producing, are considered in the accounts as additions to the net debt. They include the amounts paid in connection with the operation of the Canadian National Steamships, the deficit of the Montreal Harbor Bridge, and loans to a number of harbor commissions. The net amount of such loans in the past year was slightly over $3,000,000.

NATIONAL STEAMSHIPS
"For the operation of the Canadian National Steamships, we paid $680,000, made up of $268,000 being the cash deficit on the West Indies service, and $412,000 being the cash deficit on the operation of the ships remaining in the Merchant Marine fleet. Owing to further reductions in the number of ships operated, the Canadian Government Merchant Marine has found it possible to return to the government an additional $1,000,000 from the insurance fund which has been accumulated during the operations of the company since 1919. After receiving this amount, the result is a credit of $14,000 for the year on account of Canadian National Steamships.

The amount paid by the Dominion Government for the operation of the Montreal Harbor Bridge was $489,000. This represents the loss incurred by the bridge, not including depreciation and after crediting the annual contribution of $150,000 each from the province of Quebec and city of Montreal.

"The non-active loans to the harbor commissions at Chicoutimi, Hall's Bay, Quebec, St. John and Three Rivers for expenditures on capital account amounted to $1,800,000. Other capital expenditures were incurred by several of the commissions during the year, special arrangements for financing having been made between the commissions concerned and the contractors with the approval of the Governor-in-Council.

VANCOUVER LOAN
"In addition to the non-active loans to harbor commissions, there were loans of $449,000 to the Montreal commission and $1,208,000 to the Vancouver commission for port developments, and the amount of $19,000 to New Westminster. As interest received on these loans, they are treated as active assets and are not part of the net debt.

"For purposes of record, I include a statement of the advances to harbor commissions in the past five years and of the amounts outstanding at the close of the fiscal year," continued Mr. Rhodes.

FARM LOAN BONDS
"The Dominion continued to purchase at par the Canadian Farm Loan Board 5 per cent bonds to the extent that loaning operations required.

"Bonds purchased amounted to $400,000, and a subscription of $16,243 was made to capital stock.

"The board has paid all interest due the government as it accrued.

C.N.R. DEFICIT
"As the annual report of the trustees of the Canadian National Railway system has shown, railway operating revenues suffered a further decline of $12,500,000, or nearly 8 per cent, in the calendar year 1933. The loss in revenues was almost entirely covered by operating savings and other sources.

However, as the management had made its budget for the year on the basis of the gross earnings of the previous year, being substantially maintained, the amount required from the Dominion Government for the payment of deficits exceeded the estimated figure by $4,300,000.

"The amount provided by the government and taken into the public accounts as an expenditure in respect of the deficit on the Canadian National Railway system, after payment of interest on obligations in the hands of the public, was $58,950,000, a decrease of $1,100,000 from previous year. The net loss of the system as shown by their accounts, amounted to $67,650,000.

INTEREST ON LOANS
"The difference between this sum and the contribution of the government above referred to, is made up of $26,000,000 for interest on loans for the government—such interest being accrued in the railway accounts but not actually paid—and $2,650,000 for certain obligations to the provision for deficits, the railway company required $1,800,000 for capital expenditures and $11,400,000 for retirement of debt, these items totaling $13,200,000.

"Against this sum, the company had $5,000,000 of working capital available, leaving $8,200,000 to be supplied by the government by way of loan. Notwithstanding that the operating results were less favorable than anticipated at the commencement of the year," said Mr. Rhodes, "the company kept within its budget, the additional amount required for deficits having been made up by a saving in capital expenditures.

C.N.R. DEBT
"As at the end of March, 1934, the debt of the Canadian National Railway system outstanding in the hands of the public amounted to $1,283,000,000, having been reduced by $10,000,000 in the past year. Of the amount outstanding, $962,000,000 are obligations guaranteed by the Dominion.

"During the first three months of the present calendar year, there has been a decided improvement in railway earnings and the net revenues from operations are some $4,000,000 in excess of those of the corresponding period in 1933. The railway budget for 1934 will total $65,800,000. Of this amount, $48,000,000 is the estimated requirement for deficits, and if this result is attained it will mean a lessening of the burden on the Dominion treasury, compared with last year, of over $10,000,000. The company will require $4,200,000 for capital expenditures and $32,800,000 for retirement of capital obligations.

"The following statement," said Mr. Rhodes, "summarizes the financial requirements of the Canadian National system in respect of the calendar year 1933, compared with the budget figures and with the actual requirements in 1932.

Canadian National Railway's Financial Requirements:

	1933	1932
Deficit	$58,950,000	$67,650,000
System (exclusive of Eastern lines)	$52,263,819	$63,422,681
Eastern lines	$6,686,181	$14,227,319
Total	$58,950,000	$81,650,000
Capital expenditures	$1,283,000,000	$1,283,000,000
Retirement	$1,283,000,000	$1,283,000,000
Total	$2,566,000,000	$2,566,000,000
Less working capital available	$5,000,000	$5,000,000
Amount required	$2,561,000,000	$2,561,000,000
Government contribution	$58,950,000	$67,650,000
Balance	$2,502,050,000	$2,493,350,000

"The total expenditure is $489,000,000, compared with $489,000,000 in the previous year, a net reduction of $9,000,000.

"Actually the statement shows a total expenditure last year of $531,700,000, but it will be remembered that $52,624,000 of this amount represented loans made in previous years to harbor commissions and the Canadian National Railways which were written down from active to non-active assets, and strictly are not assessable against last year's business.

REDUCTION IN OUTLAYS

Mr. Rhodes gave a detailed account of the difficulties encountered in reducing controllable expenditures, which have been brought down by $81,000,000 since the fiscal year 1930-31, after excluding the $10,000,000 loan in London last summer in 1930. This included $50,000,000 saving in ordinary expenditures and a reduction in capital and other expenditures of $31,000,000.

Securities falling due in the fiscal year 1933-34 totaled $279,900,000. They were retired by new issues and new money required for governmental and railway purposes was secured in a similar way. Mr. Rhodes described the flotation of the $15,000,000 loan in London last summer in 4 per cent registered stock callable on or after September 1, 1933, and the tremendous over-subscription that resulted in a few minutes after the loan was opened.

TREASURY NOTES

An issue of 4 per cent treasury notes dated July 1, 1933, was made in New York for the purpose of refinancing a like amount of 4 per cent notes due October 1 and called for payment on August 1. The new issue runs for fifteen months from July 1, 1933, and is callable on or after twelve months. The issue was sold to the Chase National Bank of New York at a price of $98.875 and accrued interest.

An issue of $50,000,000 in 4 1/2 per cent treasury bills held by the chartered banks of Canada matured August 1, 1933, and provision was made for the redemption of this obligation by the issue at par of a similar amount of bills to run for one year, bearing interest at 3 1/2 per cent.

Two other issues of treasury bills were made during the year. In May last, $40,000,000 in 3 1/4 per cent treasury bills due in six months were sold to chartered banks at an interest rate to the government of 3 1/4 per cent. These bills were converted into longer term securities on their maturity in November.

A further sale of treasury bills was made by public tender, the amount of the issue was $15,000,000 dated March 1, 1934, and maturing either June 1, 1934, or November 1, 1934. Of the three months' bills $2,450,000 were sold at an average cost to the government of 2.85 per cent and of the eight months' bills $12,550,000 at an average cost of 3.12 per cent.

NOVEMBER FINANCING

On November 1, last, provision had to be made for $169,900,000 of maturing Victory Loan bonds, the balance remaining outstanding of the 1919 issue. To meet the obligation and provide funds for current purposes, domestic loan of $225,000,000 was launched. The bonds were dated October 15 and were issued in three maturities: two-year bonds with interest at 3 1/2 per cent, six and twelve-year bonds with interest at 4 per cent. The two-year bonds were offered at 99.50 to yield 3.75 per cent, the six-year bonds at 99.50 to yield 4.19 per cent, and the twelve-year at 99.50 to yield 4.38 per cent.

The twelve-year bonds were made subject to the option of the government, after ten years, and the issue price, Mr. Rhodes said, represented the lowest yield basis on which long term securities could be offered in the domestic market. By way of inducement to holders of Victory Loan bonds, a bonus was offered for prompt conversion of $139,000,000 of the maturing Victory bonds were turned in for exchange. The banks also converted $40,000,000 of 3 1/2 per cent treasury bills into them in May. The total cash subscriptions amounted to $76,700,000, of which $45,700,000 was accepted.

OBLIGATIONS LISTED

The direct obligations of the Dominion in the form of unamortized debt and treasury bills, were listed by Mr. Rhodes and summarized as follows:

	Per cent
Payable in Canada	$2,083,225,220.85
Payable in New York	$6,861,100.00
Payable in London	$300,000,000.00
Payable in London	$284,668,126.39
Less bonds and stocks of the above:
Loans held as sinking funds	$2,406,434.42
	$2,359,152,822.81

Under the heading of "Indirect Liabilities," Mr. Rhodes showed that bonds outstanding on March 31 last, bearing the guarantee of the government, amounted to $993,000,000, having been reduced by approximately $3,000,000 during the year.

New obligations were assumed during the year under the authority of the Relief Act. In June last British Columbia 5 per cent treasury bills were guaranteed to the amount of $236,533 and $2,000,000 of securities to the extent of $5,894,127, to meet New York maturities.

In the same month guarantees totaling $1,700,000 were made for steel bills under the authority of the Relief Act. In June last British Columbia 5 per cent treasury bills were guaranteed to the amount of $236,533 and $2,000,000 of securities to the extent of $5,894,127, to meet New York maturities.

The $60,000,000 guarantee to the banks on a loan in that amount to the Canadian Pacific Railway Corporation and the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, undertaken to pay for the purchase of the railway until delivery of the rails were taken.

WHEAT AGREEMENT
Steps taken to secure a rise in the price level of commodities included the international wheat agreement signed in London last year.

"Our efforts to foster a rise in price levels by every sound method will not be relaxed," the minister said. "In particular, it is the policy of our public works programme will contribute to that end by accelerating the progress of business recovery already happily under way."

The Finance Minister observed that although encouraging progress had been made, it would be a mistake to underestimate the difficulties still to be overcome before a full measure of world prosperity could be restored.

"International trade remains at a low level," he said.

"Little, if any, progress has been made in removing the excessive interferences with trade, the arbitrary quotas, the exchange controls, and the other defensive measures which have been devised to meet the dangers of currency depreciation and unfavorable balances of payments.

EXCHANGE WATCHED

In recent months, there has indeed been increased stability in the foreign exchange markets, but the anxiety of certain currencies continues to hang on a slender thread. Another period of currency unsettlement with the threat of competitive depreciation must be recognized as a possibility at least, and this suggests the desirability of a renewed consideration of the feasibility of concerted effort for the stabilization of currencies by the leading countries.

"I am aware of the difficulties which surround the problem which the world conference found it impossible to solve last summer. But some of these difficulties have been lessened in the intervening months

Dominion Government's Controllable Expenditures in Year $134,000,000

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 18.—Economy has been the watchword of the government during the recent years of declining revenues and mounting costs for relief and other special services. A few evidences of the extent to which economy has been practiced were furnished by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in his budget speech to-day.

"Controllable expenditures," he said, "have now been reduced to a point from which it will be difficult to effect further substantial savings without curtailment or discontinuance of services which are generally considered to be essential."

PENSIONS AND DEBT
Of a total expenditure of $364,000,000 last year, exclusive of railway deficits and unemployment relief, Mr. Rhodes said, $230,000,000 was uncontrollable and $134,000,000 controllable. In the uncontrollable class he listed interest on the public debt $129,000,000; war pensions, $41,700,000; treatment and after care of returned soldiers, $2,500,000; provincial subsidies, $12,200,000, and old age pensions, $12,500,000.

Compared with the year 1930-31, the uncontrollable expenditures for 1933-34 were greater by $19,000,000, due mainly to increased charges for interest on the public debt and old age pensions.

The controllable expenditures, however, declined from $217,000,000 to $134,000,000, a reduction of $83,000,000.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, stated to-day during the course of his budget speech.

It would be reasonable to expect, the minister said, that in a short time this figure could be reduced to $130,000,000. Before the Conversion Loan in 1931, the average rate was about 4 1/2 per cent.

PEACE RAIL OUTLET IS TOPIC OF M.P.P.

Clive Planta, M.P.P., Tells Vancouver Audience Prince Rupert Or Stewart Will Be Terminus When Line Built

Canadian Press. Vancouver, April 18.—Prince Rupert or Stewart will be the terminus of the Peace River railway outlet, probably via the Peace Pass, Clive Planta, M.P.P. for Peace River, declared in an address before a Vancouver service club yesterday.

Mr. Planta said Vancouver had neglected its immediate hinterland along the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, use of the port of Prince Rupert and had forfeited the opportunity of establishing Vancouver as the logical outlet for the Peace River district. He added there was still a possibility Vancouver might share with Prince Rupert or Stewart the potential trade of the northern empire of Peace River. He further declared Vancouver's interest in the Peace River and other parts of the lower mainland in the past and to-day was one of non-contributing, self-centred and selfish concern.

CALLED POLITICAL ROAD

The P.G.E. Railway, he said, was a purely political road and the Peace River was not part of the picture until politicians and business interests started the "On-to-the-Peace" cry in an attempt to "whitewash the P.G.E. flasco."

"To push the P.G.E. into the Peace River district under present conditions would be committing an act to-day parallel to that which for years we have been damning the original promoters of the P.G.E., which, were it not for the mining boom arising out of the gold bonus, would still be the same thorn in the side of B.C. taxpayers," said Mr. Planta.

"If in the future development of the P.G.E. it is found economic to give the Peace connection by Stewart or Prince Rupert, a head and tail by building from Clinton to Prince George and from Clinton to Ashcroft and extend it beyond Prince George to connect with Finlay Forks, where it would tap the trunk line outlet from the Peace, Vancouver would have an opportunity to bid for trade to and from the northern empire of this province and that of Alberta."

"Any idea the outlet from the Peace River area will be forced down the route of the P.G.E. and thereby preclude development east and west to the natural outlet at Stewart or Prince Rupert is a fallacy based entirely on prejudiced opinion and covetous desires."

PREMIER AND SPA

The speaker declared Premier Pattullo in the SPA committed a "sound patriotic act" and in the near future "Patriot Pattullo" would deal with Ottawa concerning the P.G.E. and the discussion would open up the whole problem of development in the north.

"If you fail to take a long-range view now," he said, "and respond with patriotic support, regardless of personal or political opinion, and use the avenues available to you in letting Ottawa know this province stands four-square behind our government's mission, then in my opinion you prostitute your sacred right to citizenship and set a damaging precedent for your youth who are clamoring for guidance."

PARTRIDGE IS CHAMBER HEAD

Vice-president of Junior Body Made Chairman; Other Officers Named

Frank H. Partridge was unanimously elected president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to succeed Frank Timmis at the annual meeting yesterday evening. Mr. Partridge, a former vice-president, has been acting as president for the last few months owing to Mr. Timmis's removal to Vancouver.

Leslie Osborn was elected vice-president and the following were approved for the directorate, which this year was increased from five to seven members: W. A. Baylis, D. E. Brake, G. C. Parrott, Howard Tyrrell, M. Frank Hunter, H. W. Davey and W. W. Martin.

A review of the last year's activities was presented by President F. H. Partridge in his annual report. These activities included the sponsoring of the 1933 May 24 celebrations; an excursion to Salt Spring Island; an outing to Deep Cove; an exhibition by the home products group at the Fall Fair; and clean-up and paint-up week. He referred to the fine work of the debaters and aviation groups and felt sure the junior chamber "was getting somewhere."

The meeting on behalf of himself and Frank Timmis, whom he succeeded as president in mid-term, for the co-operation received.

The ways and means committee report was given by George A. Beck. The group was working on various undertakings, plans for which would be announced later. Among these was organization of junior chambers in the surrounding districts. The members would be called upon to assist the committee at various times, he said, in asking co-operation from the membership for any schemes which might be suggested.

P. E. George, chairman, submitted a brief financial statement. There was a bank balance at present to the home products section and credit. The work of the debating group was sketched by E. J. Browning, its convener. Mr. George also reported for the home products section and Warren Martin for the agricultural group.

NO MOVE TO FIX EXCHANGE

Canada Not Tying Up to Set Level, Hon. E. N. Rhodes Tells Commons

Canadian Press. Ottawa, April 18.—Stabilization of Canadian currency must await the establishment of a stabilized ratio between the United States dollar and the British pound, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, stated during the course of his budget speech to-day.

"Much misunderstanding seems to persist in connection with these highly technical matters of money and exchange," the minister observed. "For instance, it is sometimes claimed we should devalue our currency on the same basis as the United States have devalued theirs."

"This criticism appears to reveal a complete lack of appreciation of the fact that our dollar is currently selling on an approximate parity with that of the United States, which has been devalued by slightly over 40 per cent."

"I have much sympathy with the desire for stabilization which may be latent in this argument, but in my view stabilization of our currency must await the establishment of a stabilized ratio, at least on a de facto basis, between the United States dollar and the English pound."

"So strongly are our interests tied up with both of these currencies that a policy of trying to one and not the other would represent a poor second-best and not an ideal policy. I would have to qualify this general statement if either of these currencies should exhibit a deflationary tendency; that would involve a changed situation calling probably for a radically different decision."

"The release of economic energy so produced and the substitution of hope and goodwill for despondency and discontent which are now prevalent in certain areas should result in a very real gain to our whole domestic economy."

PUBLIC DEBT

"The claim has been made that a somewhat similar procedure should be adopted to certain classes of public debt in this country. This question is too large and complicated a subject to call for more than a passing reference by me at this time. But as I have outlined our proposals for dealing with farm debts, I wish to make clear why, in my opinion, the same kind of remedy cannot be applied to the problem of public indebtedness."

BONDS HELD ABROAD

"In the first place is the fact that so large a proportion of the direct and guaranteed debt of the Dominion and the provinces is held by foreign investors. Not only that, but as a result of the method of financing in the post-war years, a very large proportion of these foreign and domestic holdings is in the form of bearer bonds payable at the option of the holder in either two or three markets. It is therefore impracticable, if not indeed entirely impossible, to administer a policy that would seek to differentiate between the Canadian and the foreign investor."

"Water argument may be advanced in favor of a comprehensive policy of scaling down all fixed charges due by Canadian debtors to Canadian creditors—and this would involve, what is too frequently overlooked, a reduction in payments to be made by as well as to Canadian credit institutions such as insurance companies, mortgage companies, trust companies and banks—I doubt whether there are many Canadians who would be willing to contemplate a programme which would involve even a partial repudiation of our external obligations."

Leader of Milk Pasteurization Movement in Canada and United States

Canadian Press. Bowmanville, Ont., April 18.—Dr. John Spencer, leader in the milk pasteurization movement in Canada and the United States during the last thirty years, died at his home here yesterday. He was an outstanding lecturer in veterinary science and served many years in universities and colleges in Canada and the United States.

At one time he was employed by the New York State Tuberculosis Commission and was one of the first to advocate tuberculosis tests and pasteurization as a means of safeguarding the milk supply. For the last five years he had been a lecturer at Kemptville Agricultural College.

BISHOP RESIGNS CARIBOO SEE

Rt. Rev. W. R. Adams in Hospital, But Condition Not Serious

Canadian Press. Kamloops, B.C., April 18.—Rt. Rev. W. R. Adams, Bishop of Kootenay and Cariboo, has tendered his resignation as Bishop of Cariboo, effective from the end of April. The resignation will not be final, however, until it is accepted by all the Anglican bishops of British Columbia. Bishop Adams has been confined to hospital for some time on his physicians' orders. His condition is not regarded as serious.

The projected synod called for May 29 in Kamloops will be abandoned and the constitutional machinery for the election of a new bishop will be placed in operation. The election may be completed before the fall, it is said.

INSECT AND PEST ACT AMENDED

Canadian Press. Ottawa, April 18.—The bill to amend the Destructive Insect and Pest Act was passed through committee of the Commons and given third reading yesterday. The provisions found some difficulties in the old act which hampered their co-operation in fighting such pests as corn borers and grasshoppers, and the amendments were simply to remove these difficulties, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, explained to the committee.

DEBT AD FOR FARMERS SOON

But Finance Minister Says Canada Cannot Write Down General Debt

Canadian Press. Ottawa, April 18.—Further details were given to-day in the budget speech of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, of the measures by which the government will seek, at the present session of Parliament, to lighten the debt and interest burden of the agricultural community. He coupled it with an assertion that writing down of government debts was not practicable.

"The guiding principle of this legislation," the minister said, "will be to secure for the farmer a simplified debt structure reduced in size to a point where the carrying charges will be within the capacity of the farm enterprise to pay. This will involve some concessions on the part of creditors, but these will be more than outweighed by the advantages which will follow as a result of retaining the farmer on the land as a willing and effective producer."

"The release of economic energy so produced and the substitution of hope and goodwill for despondency and discontent which are now prevalent in certain areas should result in a very real gain to our whole domestic economy."

PUBLIC DEBT

"The claim has been made that a somewhat similar procedure should be adopted to certain classes of public debt in this country. This question is too large and complicated a subject to call for more than a passing reference by me at this time. But as I have outlined our proposals for dealing with farm debts, I wish to make clear why, in my opinion, the same kind of remedy cannot be applied to the problem of public indebtedness."

BONDS HELD ABROAD

"In the first place is the fact that so large a proportion of the direct and guaranteed debt of the Dominion and the provinces is held by foreign investors. Not only that, but as a result of the method of financing in the post-war years, a very large proportion of these foreign and domestic holdings is in the form of bearer bonds payable at the option of the holder in either two or three markets. It is therefore impracticable, if not indeed entirely impossible, to administer a policy that would seek to differentiate between the Canadian and the foreign investor."

"Water argument may be advanced in favor of a comprehensive policy of scaling down all fixed charges due by Canadian debtors to Canadian creditors—and this would involve, what is too frequently overlooked, a reduction in payments to be made by as well as to Canadian credit institutions such as insurance companies, mortgage companies, trust companies and banks—I doubt whether there are many Canadians who would be willing to contemplate a programme which would involve even a partial repudiation of our external obligations."

CAPITAL NEEDED

"In addition to our traditional attitude towards the carrying out of our obligations according to the letter of the contract, there is the compelling motive of self-interest. Canada is a young country with a vast store of natural resources that are only begun to be tapped. If we are to convert those potential resources into consumable wealth and thus into a higher standard of living for our people, we will need the fruitfulness of foreign capital for years to come."

"We have a right to expect our foreign creditors will not make it difficult or impossible for us to pay our interest and maturing debt obligations but, unless I am seriously mistaken, this country will never take any deliberate action that would cut off or seriously impede the flow of foreign capital for the development of our resources."

ABLE TO PAY

"The second consideration I wish to place before you is that great as is the burden of our public debt, it is not beyond the capacity of our people to pay. I am sure you will grant that I am in a position to appreciate to the full how serious the burden is, not only to the Dominion government but to some of our provincial governments as well, and I wish here to pay a tribute to the splendid spirit of the Canadian people under the strains and sacrifices of the last five years."

"But the point I wish to make is that, oppressive as our burdens have been, they have actually been borne through the worst of the depression and at a level of taxation which is not abnormal when compared with the tax rates which certain other countries have imposed on themselves. Furthermore, as I have tried to demonstrate, we are returning to more normal business conditions and price levels with a speed which a year ago few of us would have ventured to predict. With a normal volume of business and a reasonable price level I am convinced we will be able to meet all our obligations without undue strain."

Much New Legislation In Provinces West Of The Great Lakes

Canadian Press. Winnipeg, April 18.—With all four Legislatures through with their work, western Canada to-day boasted more laws regulating trade, industry and agriculture than were ever written before into the statute books of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The Alberta Legislature Monday evening wound up its session which opened February 8, and previously the Saskatchewan and British Columbia Legislatures had prorogued. The Manitoba House is on adjournment until June 8, when it will discuss the Natural Products Marketing Act.

British Columbia led the way in industrial legislation, but each of the other provinces contributed new regulations to give industry throughout the west a "little NRA" with "brain trusts" as well. Chief in legislation adopted were British Columbia's Special Powers Act, and marketing bills, wheat bills, minimum wage regulations and licensing of industries.

BUSINESS CODES

Alberta's business codes are less drastic than those adopted in the coast province, but they give the government strong powers over industry. The Trade and Industry Act limits the government to encourage, limit, regulate, or prohibit the operation of industry, regulation of hours of labor, wages and prices of commodities and provides for the government to enforce fair competition. An advisory bureau is contemplated.

The Natural Products Marketing Act

also was passed by the Alberta

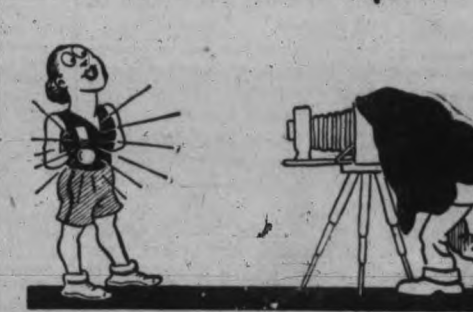

members, providing for an administration board. It also gave approval to the wheat bill, another measure implementing federal legislation which will put into effect the Canadian angle of the London wheat agreement. It also took minor steps on other industrial questions.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba industrial legislation is less extensive although covering a wide field. Saskatchewan provided for licensing of coal mines of all kinds and control and regulation of the production, processing and marketing of milk with powers vested in the Local Government Board.

MANITOBA MEASURES. Manitoba took its industrial action through the Minimum Wage Act, making it apply to all industries. The Fair Wage Board's power was extended to include private as well as government contracts. Garnishment of wages before a judgment was obtained against a debtor was abolished.

Both provinces, like Alberta, adopted the wheat bill and Saskatchewan also approved the marketing act. Debt judgment acts on the statute books of the three prairie provinces came in for considerable revision and all three governments are anticipating federal legislation to scale down interest charges on public and private debt although no indication when the legislation could be expected was given. Amendments to the debt acts were directed at protection of debtor and creditor both and in Saskatchewan the act was made to provide the debt-adjutant board with powers to grant individual moratoriums.

HOW IT SHOULD BE SPENT

WHATEVER PROPORTION OF THE money the federal government proposes to spend upon public improvements in Canada as a measure of unemployment relief may be allocated to Victoria should be devoted to works which, on the one hand, will directly or indirectly produce some substantial return to the country, and on the other give the widest measure of employment. The proposal that a new court house should be erected here meets neither of these conditions. A large part of the materials which would be required for such a structure would not be produced locally, while their cost would reduce the amount available for labor and thus defeat one of the fundamental objects of the government's programme. Beyond this, a new court house is one of the last things we require, apart altogether from the fact that the maintenance of it would impose fresh burdens upon the province, which we presume, would have to pay for its upkeep.

There is no sense in adding to Canada's unproductive debt in this way. The money to be apportioned to Victoria should be expended in projects of pressing utility. Why not use it, for example, in the extension of the West Coast road which would absorb a large proportion of our unemployed, open up new country and thereby furnish fresh revenues for the province? In such a work as this most of the expenditure would go to labor now unemployed—and it is to relieve unemployment, we repeat, that the money is being appropriated by Parliament. Canada is fairly reeling under a debt the great part of which is for unproductive, if imposing, improvements. Let us exercise a little horse-sense this time, and use our proportion to the best practical advantage, incidentally remembering, in the cold, clear light of the record, that Victoria's growth must depend upon the development of the country surrounding it rather than upon travelers who, while always welcome, come to us for three months of the year.

ECHOES OF SOUTH OXFORD

ADMITTEDLY RESENTMENT OVER the fact that the constituency of South Oxford will go out of existence under redistribution at the end of the present session contributed to the majority of the Liberal candidate, but even without that factor the opposition man's margin would have been broken all records. The electors of the riding were left in no doubt by either Mr. Bennett or Mr. King and their colleagues of the importance of the election, that, in fact, the result would have a national significance. That outcome, which beyond question reflects the view of most voters in Canada's most populous province, is a condemnation of government policy and record. Undoubtedly, too, Mr. Rhodes deferred his budget speech until after the election for fear of its effect upon the result.

The speeches of Mr. Mackenzie King, which evidently proved a powerful influence in the election, foreshadow the nature of the campaign he will conduct when the Ottawa administration goes to the country. It indicates that he will fight with all his acknowledged vigor and eloquence for the preservation of Canada's representative institutions, for the maintenance of the supremacy of Parliament as against the arrogation by government of extreme powers in matters of public policy. That issue will be sounded definitely and forcefully from coast to coast. As fundamental Liberal doctrine it can not be escaped, and Liberals, whether candidates or not, must fight for it. Otherwise, regardless of the label they wear, they must, by implication, ride in Mr. Bennett's chariot.

DOGS—AND OATS

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE, THE novelist who has written so eloquently of his fondness for dogs, broke down the other day and admitted that cats are really smarter than dogs.

They are smarter, that is, in that they are always looking out for number one. A dog will give you his loyalty and stick to you when there is not anything in it for him. But not a cat.

"You, maybe, have had a cat for years and have treated it like a king," says Mr. Terhune. "I come along. I have a warmer kitchen and more milk and liver. Your cat will gladly come to my kitchen and desert you. To find a cat with loyalty would be like finding one with five ears."

Few people who have owned cats will be inclined to quarrel much with this assertion; indeed, the odd thing about it is that it is precisely this unselfish selfishness which makes the cat a nice pet.

For if the dog flatters the ego by plunging headlong into the most uncritical and selfless loyalty, the cat does it in a more subtle way by means of a haughty condescension.

A dog goes about the house humbly, looking gratefully at you for permitting him to stay there. A cat goes proudly, regally, looking through you or past you and quietly letting you understand that it is a rare privilege to provide the daily ration of milk and chopped liver.

Even when it submits to being petted—or, for that matter, even when it comes over and demands petting—it does so with an air that lets you know that it is strictly an impersonal matter, and that it is not committing itself in any way by accepting such a favor from you.

And all this, for some reason, is rather agreeable. The unmitigated snootiness of the cat is actually flattering. In a world where most people, in one way or another, have to put up with a good deal to keep the daily bread in the pantry, it is somehow cheering to find one pensioner who neither scrapes nor cajoles.

"If," says Mr. Terhune, "I could sponge like a cat, please God, I'd do it. The only thing a cat will ever do is something for herself."

A "SUNSHINE BUDGET"

IT IS PERHAPS YEARS SINCE A BRITISH Chancellor of the Exchequer received so much free advice as to how he should dispose of a surplus as that which has been tendered Mr. Neville Chamberlain. Newspapers, public men of varied shades of thought, and even dignitaries of the Church sought to guide him in the way in which they thought he ought to go. Mr. Chamberlain had $200,000,000 to "play with" and this is what he did with it:

Reduced the income tax by sixpence in the pound.
Arranged to restore half the reduced civil service salaries on July 1.
Arranged to restore fully unemployment relief on July 1.
Reduced the automobile license tax twenty-five per cent.

A crowded House of Commons obviously was in good humor and enjoyed the stimulating effect of this "sunshine budget." With only two exceptions, the London morning papers to-day warmly praised the Chancellor's pronouncement with warm praise. The Daily Telegraph regards it as a budget "framed by a Chancellor who looks forward with sober confidence to a good year." Mr. Chamberlain anticipates a balance on the right side next year of approximately $150,000,000. The Times thinks the budget "will bring hope and renewed courage to other countries." To The Daily Mail it spells "something for everybody," and The Daily Express sees it as "a perfect background for a general election." But the Labor organ, The Daily Herald, labels it as "thoroughly retrogressive," while the Liberal News-Chronicle says it is "cold comfort for the small taxpayer."

Whatever the critics may say about Mr. Chamberlain's statement, the fact remains that he has a surplus with which to reduce taxation and restore wage cuts, and the further fact that he has budgeted for a surplus in the financial year now just begun. As the Chancellor put it, "we are now sitting down after having finished 'Bleak House,' intending to begin on 'Great Expectations'."—an apt reference to Dickens which might also have included the fiscal philosophy of one, Wilkins Micawber, who thus mused: Annual income, £20.0.0; annual expenditure, £19.19.6—result, happiness. Annual income, £20.0.0; annual expenditure, £20.0.6—result, misery. Many nations are going through the misery caused by the spending of the sixpence which they did not have.

Mr. Chamberlain, however, is under no delusion about the economic condition of the country. Obviously the business skies are much clearer than they were. Trade has improved. But the Chancellor warned the House that "settled fine weather could not be expected yet." The export markets had still to be won back, though Britain had regained her place as the world's greatest exporting nation. At the back of his mind naturally was the fact that the national debt is still around the thirty-eight-billion-dollar mark, or about eleven and a half times the size of the national debt of twenty years ago.

Yet even a balanced budget these days, to say nothing of a surplus, is an achievement of no mean order. Our own Mr. Rhodes at Ottawa to-day would have been wearing a very broad smile had he been in a position to tell the Canadian people that deficits now belong to history.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

OUR SAVIOURS
The Toronto Globe

The fact that Ottawa had the largest gain in population last year of any Canadian city leads The Calgary Herald to surmise, naturally, that searches for government jobs have been flocking to the Capital. Perhaps all those new residents are the folks who knew just what had to be done to lick the depression, placing themselves within easy call of the Prime Minister.

GOATS AND HUMANS
The Halifax Chronicle

There are two old stories about goats. The one where two goats met on a narrow bridge, but being just goats, refused to give each other the right of way and there they stuck, till each succeeded in butting its opponent into the stream below. The other story tells of two goats, which had attained some degree of civilized amenities, for one lay down, the other passed carefully and safely over it. Thus both crossed the narrow bridge in safety and without a ruffling of the feelings. Was there not something valuable for mortals in the old school-book story?

A FUNNY LOT, HE SAYS
The Stratford Beacon-Herald

Farmers, city people, young people, old people, busy people, and people who have little to do; they all huddled into the office where one secures car markers and they all wanted to get attended to at once.

We do the same thing in a number of ways. We find out when we go to light the furnace in the fall that the grates are warped and broken. We know about it months ago, but not until there is need for fire do we attend to it. People know right now that the fly door of last year is no good, they are aware that the lawn mower would not cut butter and they know the lawn hose leaks like a sieve, but will they attend to these matters? Not much. Not until stern necessity takes them by the neck and forces action, and then they will waste service quick and good. Actually we are a funny lot of people.

A NEUTRAL CANADA
The Ottawa Citizen

Some day there will be leadership toward disarmament in the commercial field, wherein the seeds of military war are sown. In the meanwhile, the effort to persuade France to place less reliance on armaments is open to criticism as a futile procedure. As Winston Churchill said, it has the effect of leading the French people to believe that Britain would again take the side of France in the event of another attack from outside. French authorities probably know, however, that it would be a vain hope. Certainly there would be little likelihood of Canada again marching in with an expeditionary force. Canadian policy in the event of another war will almost surely be to maintain neutrality. What-ever guarantee Great Britain may give to France, it cannot include any guarantee of support from Canada.

A THOUGHT

For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again.—II Samuel xiv 14.
A few feet under the ground reigns so profound a silence, and yet so much tumult on the surface.—Victor Hugo.

Loose Ends

Well, at last there is hope in the world—a new trend and a new courage—our women answer the challenge—civilization has the jitters—the Democrats don't trust the public—and so on.
By H. B. W.

NEW TREND

AFTER ALL OUR disappointments and hopes deferred, after all the sound indices and reliable authorities have proved unsound and unreliable, at last we have a positive assurance that the world is pulling itself out of the hole, that better times are ahead. Yes, according to The Vancouver Province, which has become quite lyric on the subject, there is a new and upward trend in hats. Women's hats, of course, for men's don't matter. Men have no imagination about such things. The trend in their hats, if any, bears no relation to realities. But women's hats—ah, there is the reflection of the female mind! All her thoughts are on the outside of her head and you may tell by looking at her hat whether the world is to be gay or gloomy, prosperous or poor.

And (the gods of fashion be praised!) the news about the new hats is good. They are, we are assured by the best authorities, "an adventurous looking forward to better days," and "not for a number of years have hats had the air which permeates this spring." Besides, "the new hat is joyous, the new hat is done with depression, the new hat is fastened on with elastic and ribbons—the new trend in hats is a new trend."

Splendid, is it not, brethren?—this new spirit of courage and determination which should certainly end the depression. If public purchasing means anything for what women can resist such inspiring creations as the Tudor, suggested by the present popularity of Henry VIII; the mushroom sailor, the Breton sailor, the Tyrolean, the Alpine climber, the Chinese coolie, the Mexican sombrero, the streamline? Why the very name of a better time, of new worlds to conquer. And when the bills come in, when you and I have to pay for them, such a new flood of purchasing power will be released in the world that we should have prosperity before it is time for the autumn hats to appear and for us to ruin ourselves all over again.

It is a wonderful thing, is it not, this inspiration which women get out of clothes, this great spring urge which bursts through the surface of history's greatest depression and produces a new feeling of joy and confidence in the darkest night of our civilization! Man knows nothing of these things. He has dressed for so long like an undertaker on active duty, he has so depressed himself by generations of dull dress that he cannot renew his youth in the spring simply by going out and buying a new hat. He has to gulp down half a dozen cocktails or make a clean-up in gold stocks before he begins to feel half the surge of spiritual ecstasy which one hat will produce in any woman. And courage! Is there any courage equal to the courage of our women as they defy the fates? Is there anything equal to the courage of a woman who would wear any one of these new hats in public?

JITTERS

THE EDITOR OF THE Vancouver Sun writes an editorial deploring the bad temper of the times, the mood of argument and perversity which affects everyone, the general state of jitters and hysteria which is almost universal these days. This, he says, is most regrettable, and he becomes quite hysterical and jittery himself in deploring hysteria and jitters.

Nevertheless, it is quite true. You can't get three men together these days and be confident of receiving less than two different versions of all our problems and all the solutions. You can't meet a few friends around a table but they are soon locked in solemn debate on the deeper aspects of civilization. Why, you can't even dance with a flapper but she is telling you about the gold standard or, at least, the necessity of raising the public's purchasing power.

No two people agree, from the highest authorities to the lowest, from fellows like the intelligent readers of this column down to fellows like me. Yet to solve anything, to put over any programme, some sort of agreement between people on fundamentals at least is essential. But it would seem that in the intellectual sphere, in the realm of reason, no agreement is possible. Once men begin to reason things out for themselves and to realize that most of the notions they have held in the past are silly, then they go off on all sorts of tangents, into an infinite number of different groups and lumps. We are in that state all over the world now, a state of intellectual anarchy, because all the good old gods have crumbled off their clay pedestals, all the good old theories have collapsed, all the good old slogans sound utterly out of date. Freed of these old restraints people are thinking at last—and look at us!

A world can't go on in this fashion, with everybody pulling in a different direction. The old way of meeting this problem was to give the people emotion instead of reason—a patriotic appeal which avoided the inconvenient necessity of public thinking and which, as one of the old worthies pointed out, was the last refuge of traitors. The same method of substituting mass emotion for mass thought is the basis of Fascist and Communist dictatorships in Germany, Russia, Italy, Japan and other nations.

It works all right. But to people who have ever enjoyed the right to think for themselves, even if their thinking is pretty crude, it is annoying in the extreme. But there is only one alternative to it. There is only one way to make democracy work and that is for the people to think even harder than they are now and to be better equipped by education for the job. Meanwhile we shall make a lot of mistakes which will be blazoned forth to the world as the failure of democracy. But the mistakes of Fascism and Communism will be officially suppressed or stood up before a stone wall at dawn and shot.

AS A MATTER of fact you know many of our statesmen even in this country are only half-converted and unwilling democrats. They hide it as well as they can. They protest their democracy and their undying faith in the public when they come to Canadian Clubs and political picnics. But every now and then the cloven hoof sticks out and you realize that really they have no confidence in the public which elected them. (Perhaps, indeed, their own election shook their faith in the wisdom of the electors; as it well might in many cases.)

The current debates in the Canadian House of Commons demonstrate these facts very well. At a critical moment the other day Premier Bennett broke down and confessed that he dare not trust the public with a knowledge of his unemployment relief plans. If he were to let Parliament decide the maximum amount of money to be spent, according to the old-fashioned constitutional method, why then, of course, the public would insist on that much money being spent and no less. It would force the government to spend up to the limit of the appropriations, whereas under his plan the government, working in secret, will naturally do a much more efficient job with splendid economy.

And it is bound to look economical, whatever the government does, for even if it should spend a billion dollars it can always reply, "Yes, it seems a lot, but if we had left it to Parliament why Parliament would have insisted on spending two billions." That is the precise basis on which dictators of all sorts are worked, and they look fine and shiny with new gilt paint on the outside. Mind you, I don't object to statesmen because they have no faith in democracy. That is their affair. What I object to, simply as a matter of good sportsmanship, is their pretence that they are democrats. Let them come out frankly and say that the public can't be trusted and then, while you may disagree, you will still respect them.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

WILD SONG
The lark has caroled, the jay has called,
The mocking bird's note still rings.
And the garden echoes with silver tones
Of each feathered friend that sings.
But what is that far note, floating back
From the woodland across the stream?
It is clear and sweet as song must be
In the trackless realms of dream.
O, finch and linnet, I love you well
For the gladness you give to hours
But strangely often my thought returns
To that songster in forest bowers.
So wild and haunting is his voice,
That my spirit is shaken and stirred
By the beauty outpoured, by the rapture
And pain
From the heart of that unseen bird.
Gay birds flash down to my garden-place
Within a whirl of their saucy wings;
But my feet creep through the woodland deep
For the unknown bird that sings.

NOTICE!

The Times urges its correspondents to restrict their contributions to 400 words. It positively will not print lengthy communications.

These letters must be plainly written on one side of the paper only, and must be accompanied by the names and addresses of the writers, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Letters will not be re-written for publication. If they are not legible no attempt will be made to read them.

Letters not used will not be returned to the writers.

Letters containing offensive personal reflections will not be printed. These rules, which henceforth will be carried out absolutely, are designed as much for the protection of our patient readers as for that of The Times.

VALUE NEEDED

To the Editor:—Re your leader, in your issue of April 14, headed "Vision and Courage Necessary" was timely and to the point.

Within the year 1933, approximately $300,000,000 was expended by the city of Victoria alone in the district on "relief" in wages and in kind, irrespective of the money collected from public-spirited citizens for the less fortunate citizens.

Taken as a whole one could classify same as barren expenditure.

Surly it is obvious to any unbiased person that the folks that are compelled to ask for relief through economic necessity, are as helpless as newborn babies, so to speak, as to getting employment under the present prevailing conditions. I am of the opinion, what is needed in our midst is a policy of "Vision and Creative Spirit," whereby the citizens as a whole can view something of a tangible nature, something pleasing to the eye—value for money received.

FUEL OIL AND COAL

To the Editor:—I was interested to read Mr. Kirk's letter in yesterday's Times in answer to a recent letter regarding the proposed new tax on fuel oil. Mr. Kirk, however, is not correct in several points in his letter.

First, Mr. Kirk states that fuel oil at present escapes "scot free" from any tax. He is wrong. There is a tax at present of one-half cent a gallon on all fuel oil, which in my opinion is a fair and sufficient tax.

Mr. Kirk may be right regarding the usual price of coal in Seattle, but he has often heard islanders advertised over the radio from Seattle as low as 99 per ton. Many of my friends have also mentioned hearing this.

I do not agree with your correspondent when he says that oil burners are not used by "small people." I personally know several whose incomes are far below $150 a month who are using oil burners, and who are not paying any more for fuel than when they use coal. Mr. Kirk's statement that fuel oil tax is a "luxury tax" is hardly worth mentioning.

SEASIDE ATTRACTIONS

To the Editor:—It is interesting to read the claims of other seaside pleasure and health resorts, also to note the different methods of attraction and the efforts made to encourage families on vacation to enjoy their stay often for several weeks.

We have just received an English South Coast weekly newspaper and perhaps the most interesting part of the paper was the advertising section, for there were three columns of male and female "Help Wanted," which is rather unusual to find in any journal these days.

But the other news items were quite as good. For instance, there was the description of the provision made for beach sea bathing. A three-quarters of an acre—under water flood-lighted—bathing and swimming pool, with graded depths for children, surrounded by two promenades capable of seating 2,000 spectators and with ideal accommodation for dressing and refreshments. The water in the pool is purified by ozone gas and beneath the pool will be a huge tank which will be filled automatically by the sea and pumped up as required.

Other attractions noted are a car park along the seaford, artificial beaches for sun bathing, a glass-covered walk for wet weather and terraced promenades that are veritable sun-traps, all artistically laid out and bordered with tropical palms, flowers and shrubs.

Depression Past, Says Former Mayor

CANADIAN PRESS
Winnipeg, April 18.—The depression is a thing of the past in Vancouver, said R. H. Gale, a former mayor of the coast city, when he came to Winnipeg to-day on business. Mining money from all parts of the world was flowing into the coast province, he said.

Cowichan Group Wins With Barrie Fantasy

Lightful Drama Festival Performance Is Presented By Players From Up Island; Three Other Plays Also Entertaining

By J. K.

Laurels for the second evening of the annual Drama Festival yesterday evening were given to the Cowichan Players for their splendid presentation of Sir James M. Barrie's delightful fantasy, "Barbara's Wedding."

The talented group was given many marks by Mrs. Burton W. of Seattle, official adjudicator of the week. The audience packed Crystal Garden Theatre to its full, and included Mayor and Mrs. King. His Worship spoke a few words when introduced by Major L. Lock-Webster.

That the Barrie play would win honors of the evening was known soon as it was over. The audience, in its grip while the story was told, signified its approval by longed and enthusiastic applause. The ageing colonel, A. Hoson stole the show. The other character, with exception of Eleanor Hoson, who sed his wife, were only incidental to him. They were good, but not resolute. Mr. Hoson seemed to be he was acting, and he had a soul role.

It was on the stage the entire audience seemed to forget he was old, too, and listened intently to old man, who had frequent lapses of memory and lived in the days long ago. Miss Hoson did her part of old lady extremely well. Others his excellent portrayal were Joan, Emma, R. Rooms, S. D. Taylor and Appleby. It might be mentioned that Mr. Rooms, as the gardener, gave over his character acting, and Thompson was spontaneous in actions as Barbara. Miss Molly Wood directed the play.

ON DANCE. The Fairfield Players, for their entation of "The Bishop's Candle-light," by Norman McKinnell, were rated eighty-five marks to take place. Mrs. G. Nixon directed play. The story is the old one.

about the Chief, intent on robbing, who is turned to goodness by the kindly action of the bishop. Douglas Nixon, in the role of the bishop, was a trifle unconvincing in the more dramatic parts, and Harry Eke, as the villainous convict, was rather inclined to overdo his role in certain lines. However, he spoke well and put his part across. Audrey Nixon, as Persephone, the Bishop's sister, had rather a difficult part and provided some subtle humor. Janie Williams as Marie, the French maid, was quite good in a minor role, and H. Rutherford Butt made a brief appearance as the gendarme. A drama such as this is really one of the most difficult to present successfully, and the players made the best of what they had.

LOCAL AUTHORS' PLAY. A play by a local author, L. Bullock-Webster, was awarded third place by Mrs. James, who gave eighty marks to "The Spirit of Father Pat," a story with Prince Rupert for a background, and directed by H. S. Hurn, for the Victoria Little Theatre Association. This play was inclined to drag a little, but just as the audience found its interest wandering, something would happen to focus full attention on the plot again. Art Kerr, as Tiny Merrypath, a British Columbia trapper, had the leading role, and gave a really excellent portrayal of the hard-boiled man of the woods, who was silently influenced for good by the Rev. Peter Straight, played by Herbert Pott. Les Lamb was the genial Irish keeper of the restaurant where the story was unfolded. The properties "undoubtedly" helped to bring this play its high marks. They were most realistic, and when the trapper entered from the storm he was even able to shake the rain-water from his hat and take off his wet boots.

FOURTH PLACE. A pretty little story was contained in "The Return," by G. C. Comfort, which was presented by the Croft group and directed by Nellie Scowcroft, who, at the last moment filled the part of Tibbie McTaggart, in place of Bessie McMaster. Miss Scowcroft was quite delightful as the wise old Scottish housekeeper in the house of the old-maid sisters, Miss Patty and Miss Ann, which roles were taken by Gladys West and Jean Rutledge. The characters in this play were a little stiff and conventional, and remembered much that they were playing for an audience. Miss Elma Morbey as Mrs. Andrew Parker, the runaway ward of the old sisters, did her part quite well. The plot was a little weak and the audience could see the climax a few minutes after the play started, so there was no suspense.

Mrs. James placed this group fourth and awarded it seventy marks.

TO-NIGHT'S PLAY. Mrs. James announced only the winner of the evening at the conclusion of the programme. Her criticism and adjudication will not be made until Saturday evening, when the finals will be held. So far it is known that "Wormwood," by James Peter Ferguson, as presented by the Curtain Club, and "Barbara's Wedding," will be in the finals on Saturday.

Rowles Band Gives Splendid Concert

On Friday evening last Rowles' Boys Band gave a splendid concert in the Margaret Jenkins School. The following numbers were well received: Betty Clair in a special dance number accompanied on the piano by Harry Scholfield; Harold C. George, violin solos with Reg. Porter at the piano; George Ingledew in songs and interpretative sketches; C. H. Rowles in a clown sketch.

Many of the young members of the Rowles' Boys Band and orchestra showed their ability as instrumentalists by their part in the programme. Cornet solos were played by Raymond Pellev, Tom Fox and Jim Taylor; Louis McCorkill, euphonium solo; Raymond Warburton, trombone solo; Reginald Attwell, violin solo. Instrumental duets were rendered by Harry Brooks and Bert Guy, Bert Morris and Jim Taylor and R. Warburton and D. Smith, orchestra. Bill Kissinger, R. Attwell, T. Fox, L. McCorkill and L. Noon.

A meeting of parents interested in the Rowles Boys Band and its activities has been called for Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the band headquarters, corner of Port and St. Charles Streets.

'Act Your Age'

WHAT do you think of Honorable Dr. Robb's (Minister of Health for Ontario) comments upon the physical activities of men and women after 40 as reported in newspapers Monday, February 9th? Many such inquiries reach me in my 300 letters daily.

Of course, I confirm Dr. Robb's attitude — could not otherwise in view of the 78% increase in heart disease deaths in Ontario in the past 10 years. But here we have to part company. Dr. Robb says: "Act your age after 50," implying that at 50 the heart has degenerated that slowing up is necessary. Dr. Robb seems to imply that degeneration is natural and unavoidable. I believe it is almost entirely due to wrong living habits, largely feeding habits, that vital organs of civilized people become impaired at 50, making it necessary to let down and begin to be old men and women. Vital records of civilized nations prove that for years the death rate from heart disease, apoplexy, blood pressure, angina pectoris, kidney and liver diseases, etc., not to speak of cancer, has been increasing alarmingly. Still worse, these deaths have been increasing in the most vital period of life, the middle period.

Professor McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, pointed out years ago, in his "Newer Knowledge of Nutrition", that between 150,000 and 200,000 people under forty die each year in the States from old age diseases of the vital organs and each year younger persons die of these old age diseases, proved by life insurance tables. McCollum stated that this could be avoided by sensible correction of the feeding habits, and the following facts from official records support his view. In 1881 116 children out of 1000 under five died in New York. Welfare stations were established for educating mothers in child diet and hygiene. By 1920 the death rate dropped to 16 out of every 1000. In Chicago the death rate among infants had risen in 1920 to 122 out of every 1000 births. A campaign of education in child feeding and hygiene reduced, in 13 years, the death rate to 61 — cut it in two.

Since this saving in life was made in the most delicately poised period of life, infancy, surely a much greater saving could be made in the middle or most vital period, the thirties to the sixties, by the same improvement in diet and hygiene, for then the body has its greatest natural tendency to live. Yet Dr. Harvey Wylie pointed out in 1920 that never in history was this naturally most vital period so fatal as now, and I possess many graphs from official records to prove Wylie's contention.

Let us level-headed Canadians realize that disease of our vital organs is a thing of our own creating, and avoid it by giving thought to how we ought to live, especially how we feed ourselves. Surely intelligent self-control of our foods and feeding habits might do more for us than enforced control did during the war, when the death rate fell so phenomenally in all countries notwithstanding the terrific strain of the war. For example, the death rate in Denmark fell 34% in one year under enforced food control. Such control would rebuild in our bodies a normal alkali reserve, "Nature's first defense against fatigue, disease and premature death". Nature's way to achieve this result is by the use of alkali-forming foods, the most important of which are Roman meal, Bekus-Puddy, Lishus and the alkaline beverage Kofy-Sub, the only alkali-forming real foods and beverage known. Space forbids mention of the other alkaline foods, so write for my Bulletin No. 27, and it will be sent to you free, together with my booklet "HOW TO KEEP WELL". Address Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., 577 Vine Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

From a photograph of Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., at 75. When 50 years of age Dr. Jackson was given but four months to live by the famous Sir Wm. Osler, but through natural living habits and the use of alkaline foods Dr. Jackson is today in his 76th year the embodiment of youthful vigor and endurance.

A Bath a Day!

There's More to Bathing Than Keeping Clean

1. A morning bath to wake up may be moderately hot, followed by a fast, cold splash; or cold.
2. The after-work bath. After a hard day's work or play, a hot bath for relaxation—for taking the ache out of tired muscles.
3. The bedtime bath. Not too hot. To quiet the nerves and bring quick sleep.
4. The children's bath is just as important as the grownup's bath, to say nothing of the importance of keeping little hands and faces clean.

Provincial I.O.D.E. Does Big Educational Work

$42,800 Spent to Date in Assisting Veterans' Children to Higher Education

Many Practical Gifts Sent to Needy Settlers in Peace River

Reports showing the many phases of valuable work accomplished by the I.O.D.E. throughout British Columbia during the last year featured the business sessions of the Provincial Chapter, which opened this morning and are continuing this afternoon and again this evening. The assistance of sons and daughters of overseas veterans to higher education, the giving of libraries and prizes to schools, the sending of clothing, toys and Christmas cheer to needy settlers in the Peace River district, all came within the sphere of the chapter's activities in 1933 as reviewed in the various reports.

SECRETARY'S REPORT
 Mrs. P. E. Corby, secretary, in her very comprehensive resume of the year's activities, noted that in spite of the difficult times, the order throughout British Columbia had made definite progress, its numbers had been maintained, and new chapters organized.

After reviewing the various provincial meetings, she enumerated the historic and patriotic anniversaries and other occasions at which the Provincial Chapter had been represented. These included the Empire Day, Trafalgar Day and Remembrance Day services in Victoria; the Queen Alexander Solarium annual meeting and Christmas party, the inaugural meeting of the Lukin Johnston Chapter at Powell River, at which Mrs. Curtis Sampson, assisted by the organizing secretary, installed new officers and initiated over 120 members.

Resolutions dealt with during the year included one suggesting a set form of address to accompany the presentation of badges, a suggestion which has been accepted to.

PEACE RIVER AIDED
 Mrs. Corby recalled the many appeals made to the chapter during the year, and alluded to the hamper of food, clothing and other toys sent to the Peace River needy settlers at Christmas.

Mrs. R. J. Sprott of Vancouver, regional director of Soroptimist Clubs throughout western Canada, was the guest of the Soroptimist Club at luncheon at "Patches" yesterday. This evening it is expected Mrs. Sprott will attend a round-table conference for the discussion of women's position in the economic world, the object of the discussion is to bring forward ideas to take to the international conference to be held at Baltimore, Md., in July.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Fisher of Victoria celebrated their golden wedding at the home of their son on Deas Island. They arrived in Vancouver in 1893 and Mr. Fisher was for many years the city accountant in Victoria, where they have resided for the past thirty years. One married daughter has arrived from San Francisco for the event, also Dr. and Mrs. Plummer from New Westminster, formerly missionaries in China, a sister and brother-in-law. Another son passed away in 1918.

The Sketch Club of the Island Arts and Crafts were delightfully entertained on Monday afternoon at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Ian St. Clair, when some fine sketches were made amid the budding oak trees, blue kamases and apple blossoms, with fat vistas of the spring-decked country side. The comparison of sketches at tea time was very colorful and interesting. On Monday next, club members will be the guests of Mrs. E. H. Bird, Sylvan Lane, when they will sketch in her garden or on the rocky slopes of Gonzales Hill.

Dr. Norman Coleman, speaker of the afternoon, and Mrs. D. B. McConnan, the guest soloist, were guests of the Women's Canadian Club executive at tea yesterday following the meeting at the Empress Hotel. Mrs. J. H. Fletcher presided at the tea table, which was centred with an artistic arrangement of purple iris and lilac and bronze tulips. Among those remaining for tea were Mrs. club president, Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, Mrs. S. J. Willis, Mrs. J. W. Gibson, Mrs. G. D. Christie, Mrs. Palmer and Miss Coleman (Portland), Mrs. Herbert Pendray, Mrs. Bruce, Cash, Mrs. H. P. Hodges, Mrs. W. L. Clay, Miss Margaret Clay, Mrs. J. V. Perks, Mrs. P. E. Pender Island

Mrs. Florrie Auchterlonie and family left this week for Victoria where they will spend the next two or three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Tallyn, Vancouver, have purchased property in the Armadale subdivision near Hope Bay, and arrived last week to make their home there.

Mrs. J. Wood, Vancouver, is spending some weeks with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cousineau, at Otter Bay.

Miss Jean Bennie, Ganges, was a guest for a couple of days last week of Miss H. Craddock, "Waterloo."

Mrs. E. J. Doble has returned home from Vancouver, where she had been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lamont.

Miss Critchley, Vancouver, is a guest of her niece, Mrs. John Darling.

The humorous farce, "His Uncle's Niece," will be presented in Hope Bay Hall on Friday evening of this week under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Alexander, following which the young people are planning to hold a dance.

With impressive ceremonial, the formal opening of the twenty-first annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, was held yesterday evening in the ballroom. Headed by the Provincial standard-bearer, Miss Gladys Hindmarch of Nanaimo, the procession of standard-bearers entered to the strains of Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory," played by the hotel orchestra and placed their standards on either side of the platform, on which was placed a striking replica of the I.O.D.E. emblem.

Mrs. A. F. Griffiths, first vice-president, was in the chair in the absence of Mrs. W. Curtis Sampson, the president. Following the National Anthem and a silent tribute to the members of the chapter who had passed away during the year, their names being read by Mrs. P. E. Corby, provincial secretary, resolutions of loyalty to their Majesties the King and Queen, and to His Excellency the Governor-General and Countess Beesborough were passed.

Mrs. L. A. Genge, Victoria municipal representative, very gracefully welcomed the delegates to this city for its twenty-first annual meeting, and read an excerpt from a published account of the formation of the Provincial Chapter. Mrs. Frank Stead, representative of the Victoria Municipal Chapter, responded to the welcome on behalf of the visiting delegates.

GOVERNMENT'S WELCOME
 In the unavoidable absence of the Premier, Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, conveyed the greetings of the provincial government to the chapter. He warmly commended the order for its humanitarian work among the suffering and needy, and along educational and child welfare lines, and declared that the government was not unmindful of the great contribution made by the I.O.D.E. to the relief of conditions in British Columbia.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE
 Mrs. A. F. Griffiths read a message from the president, Mrs. W. Curtis Sampson. In her message Mrs. Sampson emphasized the need, imposed by the unsettled conditions of the day, upon the women to help keep a stabilizing influence, and to inculcate a practical patriotism in the young people, many of whom are undergoing difficult times.

At the close, Mrs. F. E. Dockrill of Trail presented Mrs. Griffiths with a beautiful bouquet on behalf of the executive.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

USE WINE AND BEER TO MAKE STEAMING SOUPS

Wines and beers are now available, but to many housewives the application of these liquors to cookery is a closed book. It is the purpose of Mary E. Daghe ("Sister Mary") to tell them in a series of articles, of which this is the first, by what technique these spirited beverages can be used in from soups to sauces.

Many housewives are once more able to add that wine touch to their cookery which no menu prepared by a European chef is ever without.

Wine and beer soups, for instance, did you know that you can serve them in your own home at a minimum of expense and trouble? Borrowed from Germany is the delicious concoction known as white wine soup which is made as follows:

WHITE WINE SOUP
 One pint light white wine, 2 cups water, 1 stick cinnamon, 2 cloves, 2 slices lemon, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs.

Add cinnamon, cloves, sugar and lemon slices to water and boil five minutes. Beat yolks of eggs well with 1 tablespoon wine and stir in cornstarch carefully to avoid lumping. Add wine to boiling water and bring to boiling point. Stir egg mixture into this, stirring vigorously. Stir constantly and bring slowly to the boiling point. Remove at once from the fire and strain into lemon slices, cinnamon and cloves. Add salt and whites of eggs beaten until stiff and pour into tureen for serving. Serve with zwieback or thin slices of rolls toasted.

Instead of folding the whites of the eggs into the soup, add 1 tablespoon sugar to stiffly beaten whites. Four soups into tureen and drop egg whites from a tablespoon into the soup. Cover closely and let stand five minutes. The soup must be boiling when poured into the tureen because the steam is needed to poach the white of eggs.

Red wine soup is usually made without egg yolks. Lemon peel, sugar and spices are boiled in water as in the preceding recipe. Cornstarch is mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold water and stirred into the boiling water. This is brought to the boiling point and the wine is added. Heat to the boiling point but do not let boil. Serve at once with egg whites poached over the top as in white wine soup. Or ratifia biscuits, these are much like our macaroons, are put into soup when ready to serve.

OX-TAIL SOUP
 This soup is made in Europe of game of some sort, but the bones of beef or mutton are used here. It is very satisfactory results inasmuch as partridge and roast hare and venison are not common in this country.

Bones of roast fowl, 6 cups cold water, 2 tablespoons each chopped carrots, celery, turnip and parsley, 2 tablespoons diced bread, 1 tablespoon Madeira, 2 bouillon cubes, ½ cup red wine, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, salt, pepper.

Cover bones with cold water and chopped soup herbs. Melt butter, stir in flour and cook and stir until well browned. Add to stock and simmer thirty minutes. Strain. Remove what meat there is from the bones and chop very finely, pounding it in a mortar if you have one. Add to stock with bouillon cubes, salt, pepper, Madeira and wine and heat to the boiling point over a slow fire. When ready to serve add diced bread which has been fried until a crisp brown in butter.

GERMAN BEER SOUP
 Three cups beer, 1 cup water, 1 stick cinnamon, 1 whole clove, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 slice lemon, 1 egg.

Add cinnamon, clove, sugar, salt and slice of lemon to water. Bring to boiling point and boil two minutes. Add beer and bring to boiling point. Mix cornstarch to a smooth paste with a little cold water and add to yolk of egg which has been well beaten. Stir into soup and bring to the boiling point. Remove cinnamon and clove and slice of lemon and pour into tureen. Cover with white of egg beaten until stiff with 1 tablespoon sugar, sprinkle with powdered cinnamon, cover tureen for five minutes and serve with zwieback or thin slices of rolls toasted until crisp.

BROWN BEER SOUP WITH MILK
 This is another German soup. One pint beer, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 teaspoons rum, 1 egg yolk, stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt.

Put butter and flour together to make a smooth paste. Bring milk to boiling point and thicken with half of the flour mixture. Boil beer separately with stick of cinnamon and cinnamon. Add to stock and simmer in yolk of egg, milk and sugar. Beat by the side of the fire for five minutes. Add rum just before serving.

TO-MORROW'S MENU
 Breakfast: Stewed dried apricots, cereal, cream, baked French toast, maple syrup, milk, coffee.
 Luncheon: Rintex ditty, carrot, sticks, cinnamon rolls, and tea.
 Dinner: White wine soup, roast leg of lamb, new potatoes roasted with meat, mince sauce, new peas in turnip cups, grapefruit and cucumber salad, deep dish rhubarb pie, milk, coffee.

OLD TRAPPER PASSES AWAY
 Prince Rupert, B.C., April 17.—E. K. Charles, sixty-four-year-old trapper, died April 13 on the desolate Yukon-Telegraph trail at Currie Creek, B.C., fifty miles north of Sixty Creek. He was in poor health and was on his way to-day in word received here by British Columbia police.

Charles had suffered from dropsy and three days prior to his death had been nursed constantly by two trappers, Otto Adler and Gus Hildebrand, who arranged burial. Coroner F. V. Agnew of Smithers stated death had apparently been due to natural causes after he talked by long distance telephone with Adler.

"What Do You Suppose He (She) Sees in Her (Him)?" Is the Overtone Heard at Many a Wedding—State of Mind at Time of Proposing Has Lots to Do With Misfit Marriages

ONE of the riddles of the universe that keeps us all guessing is why people marry the ones they do. Why did John Doe marry Susan E. instead of Sally Coe, who is just as attractive in every way? And why did Sally Coe marry Richard Bow instead of some other youth who is just as desirable a matrimonial catch?

When you get to a wedding the overtone is always a speculation about what each man and the bridegroom pick out from all the other women in the world, the one he did for a wife, and, good heavens, what do you suppose the bride ever saw in the bridegroom that made her select HIM for a life mate?

This wonder increases as one observes the unsuitable matches all about us. Brilliant men with dull, stupid wives, spellbinding married to Dumb Dora's. Ambitious men married to women who are millionaires about their necks. Delicate, refined women married to big, coarse men. Cultivated women married to ignorant men. Clinging, affectionate women married to human icicles.

How does it come about? Why do so many men and women who have nothing in common with each other elect to spend their lives together? Why are men and women more prone to marry strangers than they are to marry old acquaintances or friends?

Parents can't imagine why their children picked out the mates they did. Nor for that matter do they know why they married as they did themselves. Nor do any of us. We say we married because we fell in love with some particular individual, but that is answering one riddle with another. For why were we attracted to James more than to Thomas, or to Annabelle more than Seraphina? What induced an old bachelor suddenly to forsake celibacy and rush to the altar with some girl that, as far as we can see, has no points about her different from the dozens of other girls who have been setting their caps for him for years?

Is it chance that determines our matings? Or sex attraction? Or what? Undoubtedly both luck and physical appeal have a great deal to do with our marrying the ones we do, but I believe that the chief determining factor is our mood. It is the frame of mind we happen to be in at the moment when some particular individual comes along that decides our matrimonial fate. It is when the man and the hour meet.

A classical illustration of this is to be found in the poet's assertion that in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. So do old men's, and which explains many misfit marriages. The atmosphere that makes people romantic and sentimental and that gives them an irresistible urge to make love to any handy member of the opposite sex which results in the bumper crop of June weddings that occur every year.

That the attraction that an individual has for us depends largely upon our moods is a fact we all know and which explains many misfit marriages. Thousands of sedate and sober-minded men, united to little rubbery glibbets, can lay their misfortune on the holiday mood of some vacation or gay party when they thought that nothing would be so nice to have around the house as a wife who was always making whoopee and screaming at the top of her voice.

Thousands of other men, while sunk in black depression and full of woe that they longed to pour into a sympathetic ear, have brought perpetual boredom upon themselves by rushing into matrimony with dull and tedious women who had no other virtue than being patient listeners.

A man, hale and hearty, may scorn marriage and boast of his being too clever to give up his freedom for any woman, but let him get sick and if his trained nurse doesn't want him any woman can have him: who will sit by his bedside and smooth his pillow, because he is in a dependent mood and wants somebody to mother him and take care of him.

How many women owe good husbands to bad restaurants only Cupid himself knows. But it is when a man is sick and tired of eating mass cooking, and when he can read a menu over from top to bottom without finding one single thing on it he craves, that a cozy home begins to look better than bachelor apartments. Hunger tames even a wild man and makes him eat out of the hand of the woman who has sense enough to hold out home cooking to him.

Women's marriages are even more affected by their moods than men's are. When a girl is young and just sloshing over with romance she will marry practically any lad with a John Barrymore profile and dark soulful eyes, because she is so much in love with love she is always in a sentimental mood.

Later on she becomes more choosy. She may even decide to espouse a career and not a man. Then suddenly she marries the old sultor she has refused a dozen times, or the widower with many children, because all her friends have got married and the debutantes have begun to treat her with respect, and she has gone into a mood of blind panic for fear of being an old maid.

Sometimes a highly cultured woman marries a man who is ignorant and boorish, but who has money, because at the time he asks her she is shabby and needs a new wave she can't afford and nothing seems any good just then but money.

And often a self-sufficient business girl marries a man because just when he proposes to her life is tired and wants a shoulder to cry on. And thousands upon thousands of women marry men just because they are lonely.

So it is our moods that pick out our mates for us. We marry what looks good to us at the time. DOROTHY DIX.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1934
 "The stars incline, but do not compel"
 Kindly stars rule to-day, according to astrology, planet Venus, which encourages activity in many lines of human effort.

Mars conjoins Uranus and the planets powerfully placed promise sensational happenings on the earth, which might include riotous, violent actions, electrical phenomena and sudden deaths; the signs are not altogether menacing, however.

This is a day promising to engineers and contractors who will contribute much to the progress of business and commerce. State and local governments in public improvements of general benefit.

Warning is given that economic problems must be solved for permanent good within three months. Temporary relief and palliative measures will cause grave difficulties, the seeds for future.

Again astrologers point out that communities must solve their own difficulties and practice real neighborliness as in former days.

The stars forecast increase of vice and crime, and those who read the future believe that every citizen is to blame for existing evils in the fault lies ourselves and not in our stars. If we permit the increase of crime, it is a time when intentions are serious and widowers unusually susceptible.

Persons whose birthday it is have the augury of a year of pleasant changes and new enterprises. Business associations should be especially congenial.

Children born on this day probably will be defined in ideas and determined in character. Many subjects of this sign have the scientific interests or inventive talents.

John Grier Hibben, university president and educator, was born on this day, 1861. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Ferdinand I, Emperor of Austria, 1793.

A CHOCOLATE MASTERPIECE... TO DAZZLE AND DELIGHT THEM

"But remember... you can't get cake like this with ordinary flour"

says JANE TAYLOR ALLEN, famous Swans Down Cake Maker

"TRULY a chocolate masterpiece—it brings an 'oh!' and 'ah!' from every chocolate lover. Yet for all its good looks and good taste Creole Fudge Loaf is surprisingly economical. It is one of Swans Down's famous one-egg cakes!"

But, don't expect Swans Down perfection if you use ordinary flour. Here's why... because ordinary flour contains a tough, elastic gluten—excellent for slow yeast leavens, but too resistant to "quick" cake leavens. But Swans Down is sifted through fine sieves until it is 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. That's why I say, before you tuck up your sleeves and reach for your mixing spoon—take a good look at the recipe. It says—"Use Swans Down Cake Flour. That's important."

SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR
 MADE IN CANADA FROM CANADIAN WHEAT

CREOLE FUDGE LOAF

(1 egg)
 2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder ½ teaspoon salt
 ½ cup butter or other shortening 1 cup sugar
 2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate, melted
 1 egg, well beaten 1 teaspoon vanilla
 ½ cup milk

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add chocolate and blend; then add egg and vanilla. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased pan, 8 x 8 x 2 inches in moderate oven (325° F.) 1 hour.

CREOLE 7 MINUTE FROSTING

2 egg whites, unbeaten 1-½ cups sugar
 1-½ teaspoons light corn syrup
 2 teaspoons butter 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate

Put egg whites, sugar, water and corn syrup in upper part of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater and cook 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. (Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 9-inch layers.) Melt squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate with 2 teaspoons butter. When frosting is set, pour chocolate mixture over cake, letting it run down on sides.

A NOTED ENTERTAINER IS ENTERTAINED

They've been linked together in Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee's suit for divorce, but that didn't seem to trouble Rudy Vallee and pretty Alice Faye, film actress, when this picture was taken in a New York night club. Miss Faye had just returned from Hollywood, where Fox named her on its own list of 1934 baby stars.

HIS LOTTERY BILL AROUSES STORM

Powerful opposition is rising in the United States Congress to the bill of Representative Edward A. Kenney (Democrat, New Jersey), above, for a national lottery designed to bring a billion dollars a year to the United States treasury. The lottery would be conducted by the veterans' administration to pay soldier compensation and, Kenney says, to bring tax relief.

NEW FILM RECRUIT

Newest recruit to the movies is lovely nineteen-year-old Cella Villa (above), daughter of Pancho Villa, colorful Mexican brigand. A hat check girl in a Juarez night club until a few months ago, Miss Villa is now making personal appearances in this country for the film company to which she is under contract.

TELL HOW BYRD'S CREW PRAYED IN GALE

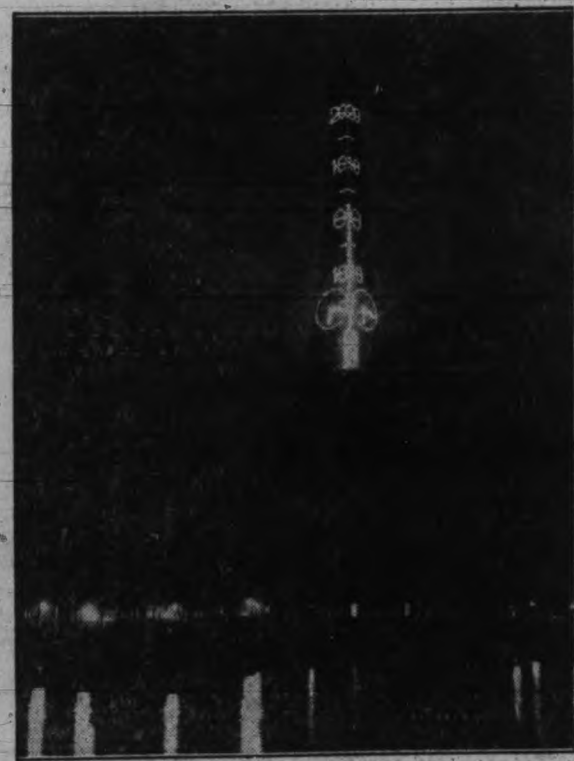

How forty-foot waves lashed the Jacob Ruppert in a howling Antarctic gale and members of the crew, thinking the end had come, asked "divine protection," was the harrowing story related by these members of the Byrd expedition when, as shown here, they arrived in New York. Granville P. Lindley (left), chief electrician, returned on "expedition business" and Victor H. Czegka (right), supply officer, is back to arrange for replenishing of food and clothing.

IRON GUARD DELIVERS ULTIMATUM TO CAROL

Reports from Bucharest state that the Roumanian Iron Guard has delivered an ultimatum to King Carol that "Mme. Lupescu must go." Failure to banish the lady for whom the Roumanian King once went into exile will be followed by new terrorism throughout the country, the ultimatum said. The picture above (top) shows Princess Helen, whom Carol (right) deserted to go with Mme. Lupescu (left). With Princess Helen is Crown Prince Michael, son of King Carol, who is allowed to see his mother at regular intervals.

NIGHT COLOSSUS FOR PARIS

Paris, which has for several months possessed the biggest clock in the world—the great citroen illuminated clock on the Eiffel Tower—is now to have the world's tallest thermometer, which will stand 984 feet, just one foot shorter than the Eiffel Tower, but 619 feet higher than the cross of St. Paul's Cathedral, London. The actual readings on the thermometer will cover 325 feet, and the whole will be illuminated at brief intervals, so that everybody miles away will be able to read the exact surface temperature of Paris. Our picture shows the Eiffel Tower at night, showing the illuminated clock and thermometer.

LOOK OUT BELOW!

CHICAGO-LITHUANIA HOP HIS GOAL

A land and ocean airplane flight from Chicago to Lithuania in August is the aim of Joe James, American-Lithuanian aviator, a feat backed by an organization of thousands of his compatriots in this country. The Lockheed-Vega plane in which he hopes to make the hop is shown in the upper picture, taken in Los Angeles as James, shown below, arrived to inspect it and complete his plans.

GERMANY AGAIN BLAMED FOR THE "BLACK TOM" DISASTER

New light is thrown upon the mystery of the Black Tom disaster in New Jersey, where a munitions explosion in 1916 killed four persons and injured hundreds in addition to causing $16,000,000 worth of damage. The claim for this destruction was made unsuccessfully by the United States upon the German Government. The new affidavit of James Larkin (left), Irish Labor agitator, now on file in Washington, may start a new claim. Larkin, who was deported from the United States in 1922, after serving a sentence for criminal anarchy, says he was asked by the late Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, German Naval Attaché in Washington, to take part in German sabotage plans before America entered the World War. He also claims to have been present when German agents were planning the munitions explosion at Jersey City, and that he later heard German agents boast of their deed in Mexico City. Larkin further charges that officials now high in the Hitler regime "have knowledge" of the blast.

SASKATCHEWAN TWINS PUZZLE FRIENDS

It's not often you see twins quite so much alike in appearance as Betty and Edna Rowlett, sixteen-year-old daughters of a railroad foreman Watson, Saskatchewan. Information is that it's Betty on the left and Edna on the right, but don't be too sure. Their parents buy the gloves and clothes in the same sizes for Betty and Edna and recent an eye ailment made it necessary to get the same sort of spectacles for the two girls.

SUES BRITISH LORD

Half a million dollars is the price set by lovely Angela Joyce, English actress, now in Hollywood, for a bruise inflicted on her heart. In a suit filed in London, Miss Joyce seeks that amount from Lord Revelstoke, recently-wed British peer, charging he broke a promise to marry her.

FLOATING "HOTEL" FOR UNEMPLOYED

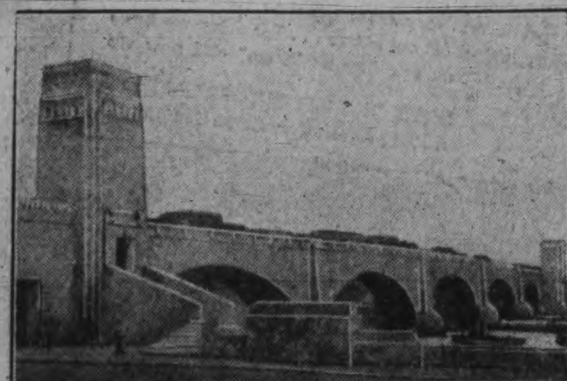

Some of the unemployed men who will make a home on the former hospital ship Mercy are shown on the deck of the craft busily refitting doors and windows. The ship (below), moored in the Schuylkill River, Philadelphia, will house hundreds. Plots of land are provided nearby where tenants of the vessel will do market gardening.

PUZZLE: WHERE'S THE JUNCTION?

Clinton Junction, Okla., is only a speck on the map at its best, but even that speck was hard to find after six feet of water rushed over the town when the Washita River went on a rampage as shown here. The rail station kept its equilibrium, but other buildings toppled before the torrents. The flood took more than a dozen lives down stream.

STRUCTURE MAY SUPERSEDE WATERLOO BRIDGE

Ever since the famous Waterloo Bridge, which spans the River Thames in London, was condemned, and a temporary structure erected beside it, the people of London have frequently asked what kind of a permanent bridge would replace it. Here is the design of the Waterloo Bridge of the future which Sir Giles Gilbert Scott has submitted for approval. This modern structure would cost about $6,000,000.

WOULD ALTER

WATER CHARGE

P. R. Leighton Tells Junior Chamber Flat Rate Should Be Paid For Service

Water charges in the City of Victoria and Oak Bay would be more equitable and more satisfactory to both consumers and distributors if they were based on the amount of water used and the size of the outlet employed, P. R. Leighton, yesterday evening told members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at their annual general dinner meeting in the Douglas Cafe.

Mr. Leighton discussed the question at length, giving figures which, he claimed, illustrated an improper method of payment employed at the present time. Throughout his talk he stressed the fact that a flat rate of payment would be a better plan on which to operate the system.

His views on the matter were purely personal and were not wholly in accord with those possessed by civic officials and other authorities on the question. He was more particularly interested in the cost of surplus water, or that used during the summer months for gardening purposes.

ALLOWANCE MADE
He explained that in 1925, when the city had been asked to make some allowance to garden owners for the large quantities of water they used for cultivation, a plan had been devised for payment of 50 per cent of the amount over that which was used in 1917. To illustrate, if a person had used 1,000 gallons in 1917 and 1,200 in 1924 he would be charged one half the cost of the additional 200 gallons.

The fallacy of this scheme was demonstrated because in many cases there had been no extra water used for gardening in 1917 and consequently there had been only a slight reduction. A fairer system, he thought, would have been to charge fifty per cent of the surplus of the summer water over the winter water.

This would mean that gardeners paid only half the cost of water used for cultivation.

In referring to the waterworks generally, Mr. Leighton strongly supported the Goldstream system and did not think there had been any error in its purchase. He pointed out, standing on the off side of the watershed might be disposed of at a figure which would materially assist in payment of the cost of the system.

LOSING SCHEME
Coming to the Sook system and the existing plan of paying water to Oak Bay from Victoria, Mr. Leighton pressed the fact that Oak Bay was getting its water too cheaply and the city was losing money under the scheme.

He also felt considerations of the arbiters in allowing 2,000,000 gallons of water to be flowing past his house, he thought, had been too much. Illustrating this point by showing that the city records proved that on one day in July, 1925, only 2,000,000 gallons of water had been used, he also felt that leakage should be taken into account when the charge was levied against Oak Bay.

It was a case of bonusing the outside municipalities at the expense of the inside consumers, he averred.

In reply to a question from one of the members regarding the financing of the waterworks, Mr. Leighton felt that no attempt should be made to meet the capital debt, but that interest charges should be paid personally. The system was a permanent asset, he continued, and there was no reason why one generation should pay for the complete charges to enable a future generation to have free usage.

George Book moved the vote of thanks.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

"Yes, Mr. Brown," the United Artists picture which is showing at the Columbia Theatre, will introduce a new screen team to American audiences. For in the picture Jack Buchanan, international star, co-stars with Elsie Randolph, London musical comedy favorite, and the two are remarkably well matched.

It took 216 gallons to make a tun of ale when that liquid measure was in general use.

Victor McLagen and Alison Skipworth in Thrilling Story of the Barbary Coast

The color of San Francisco's famous old Barbary Coast, the thrills of battling men maddened by love and the tender appeal of a love starved girl of the slums, enlivened by stirring scenes aboard ship make gripping entertainment of Paramount's "Wharf Angel," which opened to-day at the Capitol Theatre.

Victor McLagen and Preston Foster, as two contrasting, fearless men of action, give excellent performances, as does Alison Skipworth as the proprietress of the Barbary Coast dive. Perhaps the biggest surprise of the picture is the outstanding performance of Dorothy Dell, former Ziegfeld Follies singing star and "Miss Universe" of 1930, making her screen debut in the title role. She is as talented as she is charming.

DOMINION THEATRE
Elizabeth Allan, who plays the feminine lead opposite Robert Montgomery in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new musical-warrior, "Mystery of Mr. X," now playing at the Dominion Theatre, wears many stunning crowns from London in various sequences of the new film. It is said, Miss Allan, an English actress, has many friends in London, among them eminent designers. These latter sent the gowns to her in Hollywood in time for the new film.

EMPIRE THEATRE
An all-star revue, "Melody Parade," is now being shown at the Empire Theatre, featuring Frank McPherson and his Hawaiian Ensemble, with a unique programme of haunting musical numbers. Other diverting features include a presentation by the Lone Star Buckaroos, masters of cowboy and hill-billy songs; Bonnie Mathews, blind pianist; Wally Peters, fifteen-year-old banjo wizard, and many other acts.

WILL PRESENT "THE ROTTERS"
Friday, April 27, will see the premiere of the James McGrath Players in the highly amusing and hilarious Lancashire comedy, "The Rotters," at the Shrine Hall. This delightful satire of English respectability in a small north of England town concerns the fortunes of a family headed by an ambitious town councillor whose selfish is respectability. Lancashire humor has an appeal to most people, and in this clever play of H. B. Maltby, who so delights in debunking the smug self-righteousness of a certain type of Englishman, there will be found a fund of humor and a riot of laughter.

KPECT TO END NIGHT QUESTION

reement Between Parks and Baseball Interest in Floodinglight To-day

The city parks committee and baseball interests seeking to end floodlights in the Athletic park were expected to come to agreement at their joint meeting in the City Hall to-day.

It was understood that the city would slightly amend a proposal by David Leeming which aims to the baseball organization pay $500 towards the caretaker's salary and advance the city $1,000 at the end of the year on the understanding that sum would be returned early in 1935. The suggestion makes no mention of the flood lighting interests raising $8,000, but explains the $1,000 grant more or less in the light of a bookkeeping account to balance the city's budget in which provision has already been made for revenue from the park.

The baseball interests, too, it was understood, had a conciliatory agreement to submit, and it was expected the question would be more or less settled following the meeting. The matter will have to go to the City Council for final approval in the form of a report from the parks committee.

Daughter Of 'Penda' And 'Caddy' Seen Near Jordan River

Island Residents Confident They Have Discovered Third Member of Sea Serpent Family and Call Her "Jorda" Foul Bay Man Photographs "Caddy"

Mr. and Mrs. Cadborosaurus, otherwise known as "Caddy" and "Penda," have a daughter, according to word which reached Victoria from Jordan River to-day. A number of residents there saw a small serpent on Monday afternoon not more than 100 feet from shore, lunge for a cormorant that was swimming nearby.

Jordan River residents have lost no time in naming the youngest Cadborosaurus "Jorda." Those who saw "Jorda" were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindner, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cox and their daughters and Gordon Lyall and his mother.

Mr. Lyall wrote a letter to The Times giving full details of the incident. He thought the young serpent to be about twenty-five feet long.

"Jorda" was seen not more than a hundred feet from the shore, near the mouth of the Jordan River, by myself and my mother, on Monday afternoon last. Previous to the moment when our eyes alighted upon her we both had been rather doubtful as to the actual existence of sea serpents in any shape or form. However, we saw, so we had to believe.

"We saw her walking pace along the beach to catch the speed of Jorda, who was moving slowly along the surface of the water towards the river-mouth a short distance away.

SNAPS AT BIRD
"Suddenly spying a large cormorant swimming unsuspectingly nearby, 'Jorda' with an upward coiling motion of her sleek body, lunged with great speed at the poor bird. The cormorant was a great flapping of wings. The serpent, with another convulsive movement left the water so that its whole body was revealed, and swung its head upward and backward in an attempt to catch the bird with its large snake-like mouth. This it failed to do.

"I judged the body to be between twenty-five and thirty feet long, and about one and one-half feet or more in thickness, tapering down to a blunt, rounded tail of about a half a foot thick.

"In the rays of the setting sun, the color appeared to be a greyish brown, with the brown predominating. Similar to 'Penda,' 'Jorda' has a smooth body. There was no serrated ridge along the back. The snake-like mouth was quite large, with no visible teeth.

CALLS FRIENDS
"Traveling along the surface of the water it reached the mouth of the Jordan River. There I called for some friends. Mr. and Mrs. A. Cox, and their daughters, Phyllis and Paddy, to see 'Penda's' daughter, who was now swimming lazily around in ever-widening circles. As we watched, a low-flying duck narrowly missed its demise as 'Jorda' coiled up and shot out of the water slightly to snap at it. At last the serpent became barely distinguishable from the choppy surface as it moved slowly out from the shore-line.

Your daughter is in good hands." Another report from Jordan River this morning said "Jorda" was quite close to the beach yesterday.

There have also been other gifts of household goods from those who wish to help this worthy cause.

At the monthly meeting of the Sanitich Welfare Association the secretary reported the following: Two hundred and ninety-four families, representing 754 persons, had been helped. 66 had new boots, 5 had boots repaired, 4 pairs of new rubbers and 24 pairs soles for shoes. Two hundred and thirty-nine articles of new clothing, including overalls, new shirts, socks, underwear, children's dresses, boys' pants, two new raincoats and about 500 packets of seed have been given out. Thanks were expressed to the Layrite Nurseries for a generous cash donation, and about forty kind friends, who sent parcels. A sack of seed peas from Mr. Butt was much appreciated. There have also been other gifts of household goods from those who wish to help this worthy cause.

Programme And Officials Announced For City School Sports

Young Athletes In Big Meet At Willows, May 23

Thirty-one Track and Field Events Drawn Up For Feature Event of Year

ENTRY LIST TO CLOSE ON MAY 11

Plans for the annual track and field meet of the Victoria and District School Sports Association, to be held at the Willows, on Wednesday, May 23, commencing at 1.45 o'clock, are rapidly nearing completion as the date of this monster event draws near. Hundreds of students from the many schools in Victoria and district will compete in the lengthy list of track events at the Willows, and in the preliminary field events staged prior to the date of the grand meet. The complete list of officials and programme were announced to-day by Major A. C. Hinton, supervisor of athletics.

Toronto, Montreal Maroons and Montreal Canadiens have declared for young active material according to reports the Canadians are liable to add Jack McGill, Moncton star, to their squad along with several other smart amateurs like Maxie Benoit, Desilets and possibly Bourcier. Jack Portland should be ready to take a very prominent part in next year's campaign. Maroons expect to land Crutchfield. They have been assured of the services of Toe Blake of Hamilton and MacManus of Moncton Hawks.

Art Ross is a firm believer in tried and true talent, but he won't be averse to taking a Moncton Hawk or two to help Boston reconstruction plans, while he has lined up several players from the Toronto Mercantile League. New York Rangers have Connolly ready for delivery while Colville, a smart western junior, is going to be given a chance. Toronto has a raft of St. Mike's who will be assimilated in the squad to replace Cotton, Blair, possibly one of the others who are reported to be on the verge of a move. The rumors persist that the now aged in the wood "Kid Line" will be broken up. There won't be many changes at Detroit, where amateurs will hardly break in. Tommy Gorman is a great believer in tried material, with which he likes to experiment as he has done this year. So far as Chicago Hawks are concerned the slogan likely is "no amateurs need apply." New York Americans would like to grab a few on their own, but they are troubled with the "shots" when it comes to making attractive enough offers, so are unlikely to unload any very big cargo of unfinished material at their training camp. The prospects point however to at least twenty or so youngsters trying out next year from the amateur ranks, with the possibility of half that number finding themselves listed in the lineups.

When Wesley Ferrell told reporters at Greenboro, N.C., the other day that he had enough money to meet his needs for the next thirty years, he wasn't fooling. The Cleveland Indians' holdout might even have said one hundred years without a great deal of exaggeration.

Ferrell, who has been paid $64,954 since he started pitching baseball for the Indians six years ago, is a young man who does not top his checks around. One of his teammates stated recently he was probably has saved $50,000, and that is a conservative estimate, since he lives frugally and has none of the habits which require money to indulge.

On the theory that his arm is shot Cleveland offered $5,000 this year, with a bonus plan effective after ten victories. Ferrell insists that his arm is okay and he wants to be paid on that assumption. Billy Evans gave Ferrell the privilege during the winter of buying his own release for $25,000. It was believed another major league club would put up the money. But Evans couldn't negotiate, so after three weeks the offer was withdrawn. The fact that Ferrell was placed in the outfield late last summer practically kills chances for a trade.

Ferrell was picked up in 1927 and received a bonus of $3,000 for signing a contract. He pitched only one inning that year, and was paid $500. In 1928 he was farmed to Terre Haute, where he won twenty games and lost eight. His pay was $500 a month. Late in that year he was brought to Cleveland where he pitched sixteen innings, lost two games and was paid $1,000.92.

The year following was one of his great seasons. He won twenty-one games for Cleveland, losing ten, and was paid $2,899.28 salary and $3,000 bonus. Ferrell's contract for 1930 called for $9,000 and he received a bonus of $1,000, winning twenty-five games. In 1931 his salary was raised to $15,000, and he won twenty-two games.

He signed in 1932 for $18,000, but was suspended and fined by Manager Peckinpaugh, bringing his actual pay down to $19,922.16. He won twenty-three games that year. Last season Ferrell signed for $12,000 and in mid-season his arm collapsed. Because of his hitting ability he was tried in Entries for the meet will close on Friday, May 11, with C. Chatfield, who has charge of drawing up the programme and listing the events.

Sprints for students from the tender age of seven years, to those of any age attending the elementary schools, are included on a lengthy programme of track events.

Relay races for boys and girls over the 440 yards distance, bicycle races, girls' skipping races and tug-of-war competition round out an excellent programme for the Willows.

High jump for boys and girls, broad jump and hop-step-and-jump for boys, and the preliminary rounds of the tug-of-war competition will be carried out prior to the meet on May 23.

Hundreds of proud parents and non-competing students make their way to the Willows to witness this meet, one of the most largely attended in the city.

Harry Smith has been appointed starter for all events, with W. C. Moreby, W. T. Straith, members of the Board of School Trustees, and W. E. Steneland as judges of the track events.

PREPARE FOR GUN MEETING

Detective Jack Rogers Three Below Possible in Revolver Practice

If practice shots may be taken as any indication, police of the northwest who compete in the annual revolver meet at Victoria Mount Douglas range, and before the day was over some first class scores were turned in.

Yesterday afternoon a quintette from the detective department, who have taken part in team matches for the city, had a "workout" at the new Mount Douglas range, and before the day was over some first class scores were turned in.

Detective Jack Rogers led the way with a brilliant 87 out of a possible 100 at twenty yards. His was one of the finest targets shot around here for a long time. Detective Rogers is considered to be one of the best shots in the department, and yesterday's target was the second best he had ever turned in for practice or competitive shooting.

Rogers dropped only one shot out of the black into the eight ring. He had eight bullseyes and one nine. Detective Inspector J. McElliott, with Detective Walter Calwell, William Stark and T. Harvey Bamford comprised the remainder of the party. C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, who is an enthusiastic revolver user, also on hand. All shot well, and if improvement continues until the annual meet, as it has done since the "shooting started," big things are expected of the city representatives.

New York Racing Bill to Governor
Albany, N.Y., April 18.—Senate concurrence in a minor amendment yesterday evening sent legislation to legalize betting at New York state race tracks to Governor Herbert H. Lehman for his approval, which he has promised.

The bill removes the "teeth" from the Hughes anti-betting laws of 1908, since when betting has been illegal.

The proposed legislation removes the penalty from open betting and provides that persons who wager may bring suit to recover money lost at tracks. This provision the sponsors say, clears any question of unconstitutionality.

The measure also imposes a tax of 15 per cent on the gross receipts of tracks, estimated to bring an annual revenue of $1,500,000.

Mason and Dixon Tennis Will Open
White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 18.—Weather permitting, the fourteenth annual Mason and Dixon tennis tournament, twice postponed on account of rain, will get under way to-day.

Walter Martin, Toronto, and Marcel Rainville, Montreal, are competing.

OUR MAIL BAG

To the Sports Editor:—Speaking as one who has had a great amount of experience in the managing of Victoria all-star football teams, I would like to make a suggestion regarding the selection of the Victoria United eleven for matches in the Intercity League.

In my opinion one of the best full-backs in the city is young Jack O'Neil of the Victoria West. He has played splendid football all this season, and is shaping up as one of the finest back division men ever developed here. And yet he has never been given a place on any of the intercity eleven.

The argument is put forth that he is too small. And yet last Saturday Harry Holmes, a smaller player than O'Neil, was seen in action.

O'Neil is a good kicker with either foot, a sound tackler and can use his head. I think the selection committee would make no mistake in giving him a chance.

C. H. LEWIS.

TRACK TRIALS ARE ARRANGED

B.C. Athletes Fight For Right to Travel East at Vancouver July 4 and 5

Vancouver, April 18.—Track and field trials to decide the personnel of the British Columbia contingent seeking a place on the Canadian team to the British Empire Games at London will be held on July 4 and 5.

Committees representing the British Columbia Track and Field Association and the British Columbia branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada decided on the dates yesterday evening.

The far-west contingent will compete in the Canadian trials at Hamilton, July 13 and 14.

It was also decided that if any junior competing in the British Columbia junior olympic meet, which will be held on the same dates as the B.C. trials, comes within the standings for the senior trials, he will automatically be eligible for the trip east without further competition in British Columbia.

British Columbia trials for the right to compete for a place on the Canadian schoolboys' team to tour Australia will be held at New Westminster late in August on a date to be set later.

The British Columbia track and field championships will be offered to Pentiction with a July 1 suggested date.

SOFTBALL WORKOUT

Native Sons of B.C. softball team will hold a workout at Central Park this evening at 6 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

THISTLES TO WORKOUT

Sanwich Thistles football club will hold a workout at the Athletic Park to-morrow evening at 6 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

Province Hoopster Win Over Winnipeg

B.C. Champions Take First Game of Western Canada Final 33 to 22; Purves Stars Again; Patrick Boys Lead Nationales to Eastern Championship

Winnipeg, April 18.—Vancouver Province, with one victory already tucked away, will stack up against Winnipeg's Robertson Memorials again here to-night in the second game of the five-game series for the western Canada men's senior basketball championship.

Fighting for the right to meet Pacific Northwest title series, the British Columbia champions defeated the Manitoba titlists 33 to 22 here yesterday evening in the first game of the series. The third game will be played Thursday night and if other games are required they will be played Friday and Saturday nights.

It was Jack Purves who gave the conquerors of Victoria Blue Ribbons, 1933 Dominion champions, victory. He piloted the Coast team on numerous sallies into Manitoba territory and usually field goals resulted.

Robertson Memorials, who ousted Winnipeg Trollers, perennial Manitoba champions, in division play, kept plugging at the Vancouver defence, but lacked the finish needed for victory.

Purves counted 18 points to be high scorer of the game. The other points on both teams were well divided. Johnny Huen topped the Winnipeg point-men with seven. All others were five points or under.

BOTH TEAMS OFF
Outside of "Long John's" display, however, there was not much to enthuse over in the way of sound basketball. Both teams were off in ball-handling. The Memorial's passing was erratic. The Province five only showed a true combination game toward the finish of the contest, as the locals after trailing after trailing at the start, Vancouver boasted a strong zone defence that forced the Memorials to resort to long-range gunning, while the visitors broke through repeatedly to score from inside the Memorial's guards.

Gordon Earl, starriy Winnipeg forward, started everypody, scoring in the first few seconds after snapping up Alex Mitchell's tip-off. He shot another a few moments later, while Johnny Huen dropped in a long field goal. But the score 8 to 0, but after Armstrong tallied, the far west basketekers rolled into action and led 18 to 15 at half-time.

Robertson's brief stab at rallying after resumption, but the guards repeatedly let Purves score, and the local team felt farther behind. But the fall failed to make the most of free throws, Vancouver missing eight and Memorials five.

Huen was Winnipeg's star, tallying seven points, while Bob Hampton, Gordon Earl and Ronnie Havens were credited with four. "Red" MacDonald and Ed Armstrong were other high point-makers for the British Columbia squad, getting five apiece.

Teams and scores follow:
Vancouver—McIntyre 2, Kennington, Purves 18, MacDonald 5, Armstrong 5, Huen 18, Bumstead 3, and Helem. Total 33.
Winnipeg—Huen 7, Growski 2, Hampton 4, Nitchuk 1, Driver, Earl 4, Havens 4, Gordon. Total 22.

Referee, Jerry Porter, Vancouver umpire, Henri Schedel, Winnipeg.

Halifax, April 18.—Led by the two Patrick brothers, Murray and Lynn, Montreal Nationales won the eastern Canadian senior men's basketball championship yesterday evening. The Nationales won the best-of-two-out-of-three series from Dalhousie University, 45 to 26, here yesterday evening. The Nationales won the first game here Monday night, 37 to 36.

Murray Patrick, star of Monday night's game, shared honors with his brother Lynn, "Nationales" captain, yesterday evening. Both boys, former stars of Victoria Blue Ribbons, 1933 champions, ran wild in the second period and gathered seventeen points between them in this half alone.

Tearing up and down the floor at dazzling rate, they soon tired their opposing guards and tossed several close-in shots through the basket in their favorite one-hand shot.

Bauid and Musgrave relieved Ralston of the Tigers' high scoring honors in yesterday's game. Both boys, netted nine and eight points, respectively. Ralston, Monday night's star for Dalhousie, was held scoreless in yesterday evening's game.

STIFF CHECKING
Playing a close-checking, man-to-man type of game, the Montreal team held the Tigers down to six points in their first half, all of them scored on penalty shots. Gladstone scored five of them and Bauid the other one.

Determined to score at least one basket, the Dalhousie boys started the second half with a rush, but could not put the ball in the basket. After eight minutes of this period had elapsed Musgrave scored the university's field goal. Bauid threw in a long one about five seconds later, and he seemed to break the jinx which had been cast around the hoop.

Nationales—M. Patrick 19, C. Hammond 4, C. Melville 5, P. Griffin 4, Mel Rice 4, L. Patrick 11, J. Schuler and B. Goddard. Total 45.

Dalhousie—D. Bauid 8, C. Drees, T. Cress, B. Ralston, M. Musgrave, C. C. Anderson 2, S. Pairstein and W. Gladstone 7. Total 29.

Open Croquet Courts

The management of the Crystal Garden announces the opening of three fine croquet courts at the rear of the building, adjoining the lawn bowling greens. The courts are open every day but Sunday from 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon until dusk.

CAMPANULA WINS RACE

Sir George Bullough's Takes Column Production Stakes at Newmarket

Newmarket, Eng., April 18.—George Bullough's filly, Campanula, won the Column Production Stakes this afternoon with a favorite, Bright Bird, and Valius, a Derby choice, third. L. G. Stanley's champion colt C. ombo, not favorite for the Derby, did not run.

Campanula won by only a head over Bright Bird in a drive finish at the end of the race course with Valerius in the place well beaten, four lengths back. Four others ran.

The betting was 3 to 1 against Campanula, 4 to 1 against Bright Bird, and 7 to 2 against Valerius. The winner is a bay filly, Blandford out of Casper Bell, won two out of four starts as a year-old. She carried 128 pounds and was ridden by Harry Tragg.

Bright Bird, owned by Lord and Lady B. de Grey, carried 126 pounds, while Valerius, owned by J. Jones, carried 116.

The race was the first of the season for the higher-class horses, who will run in the Lord Glanville's unbeaten colt, ombo, is being reserved for the Thousand Guineas at Newmarket.

WENGERS ARE PIN CHAMPI

Defeat Jokers in Str Games to Win Olym Senior Tenpin Title

Taking the first game by a scant margin of six pins, and second and third fixtures in decisive fashion, Wengers, senior tenpin league trundlers, captured the Olympic Senior Tenpin League championship yesterday evening by defeating the Jokers three straight games in a scheduled five-game play-off series.

Jokers won the first half here and Wengers the second.

Ron Wilson, another man and Wengers, settled the issue in the game when he came through w double and eight pins in the frame to give Wengers their all margin victory. The newly crowned champions got out in front from start in the next two fixtures won by safe margins.

WILSON HIGH MAN

With scores of 222, 200 and 211 respectively, Ron Wilson set a fast pace and was the only bowler to pass 600 mark. Jack McLennan rolled single game when he topped pins.

The season will be brought close Saturday evening at the C. P. Alley with the presentation prizes. Commencing at 8 o'clock, doubles tournament across six will be held, in which partners will be selected by draw. At the conclusion of the tournament prizes will be sent and refreshments served. Members of the Senior Tenpin League are invited to be present.

Scores in the play-off follow:
Wengers—W. Norris 80, A. Forre J. MacLennan 571, C. Chislett 542, R. son 628. Total 2,885.

Jokers—J. White 441, Riddell 545, Pal Quinn 539, Fox 579. Total 2,704. Wengers won three.

Double Knockout Ends Mat Ball

San Francisco, April 18.—A double knockout ended the wrestling here yesterday evening. George Wilson, 200, Seattle, and M. Muir, 218, Australia, were the main event. Wilson attempted a tackle at the same time, they lifted head-on in mid ring with force that neither was able to evade. The bout was even up to point. Wilson having won the fall in five minutes with a 2 tackle, and Muir the second in minutes with a body slam.

Other results included: 80 Pinto, 212, Chicago, tossed Marm, 214, Seattle, with a slam in eight minutes.

Major Ball Openers Draw Large Crowds

Over 187,000 Fans Attend Eight Games in National and American Leagues; Champion New York Giants and Washington Senators Win; Warneke Pitches Well

Major league baseball clubs to-day settled down to the serious business of daily games, hopeful that a rather glorious round of opening contests has set a keynote for the entire 1934 season.

The fans poured through the turnstiles in greater numbers than in either of the last two seasons. More than 187,000 fans attended the eight opening games to watch a better-than-usual set of first-day attractions.

The world champion New York Giants attracted about 37,000, and the faithful were rewarded by seeing Carl Hubbell, last year's world series hero, pitch a four-hit game to triumph over the Phillies 6 to 1. The rebuilt Red Sox were the leading attractions of the American League as they clashed with the 1933 pennant winners, Washington's Senators.

The crowd of 33,338 which saw the improved team was one of the best on record in Boston and it had plenty of thrills in an eleven-inning struggle which Washington won 6 to 5. Throngs of about 30,000 also appeared at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers downed the Boston Braves 8 to 7 in an exciting slugfest, and at Cincinnati, where the first view of the rebuilt Reds proved mostly to be a view of Lonnie Warneke, Chicago's stellar right-hander.

ONE-HIT PERFORMANCE
Pitching in midseason form Warneke missed a no-hit, no-run by one throw as he blanked the Reds 6 to 0 and whiffed thirteen batters. Chuck Klein, imported from Philadelphia, celebrated his debut with a home run. Jimmy Wilson, Phil's manager, took Hubbell's shutout away when he walked a home in the ninth, the A's rallied to win when Bing Miller punted a pinch single for the third hit of the inning.

With 21,000 fans looking on, Cleveland's Indians made eight hits good for a 5 to 2 victory over Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns as Earl Averill smacked in three tallies with a homer and a double. Mickey Cochrane and his Detroit Tigers showed a new brand of scrappiness as they converted six blows into an 8 to 3 triumph over Chicago.

St. Louis Cardinals, with Dizzy Dean, holding forth on the mound, pounded out the day's high total of thirteen hits and trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 7 to 1. Ducky Medwick socked a homer and two singles and Pepper Martin hit a brace of doubles. Brooklyn and Boston also eluded the new National League ball effectively. Homers by Dan Taylor and Hack Wilson contributed runs to Brooklyn's early lead which lasted through a ninth-inning rally by the Braves.

In a wild and woolly game, Hollywood conquered Seattle 7 to 5 in opening the Pacific Coast League baseball season in the Sound City before approximately 8,000 fans yesterday.

The Indians used five pitchers in an effort to win the first contest before one of the largest crowds seen here in a couple of years.

WIN IN NINTH
A crowd estimated at more than 10,000 saw the Portland baseball team push across a run in the ninth inning to defeat the San Francisco Missions 3 to 2 in the opening home game of the season in Portland.

The largest baseball parade in Portland in fifteen years wound through town and wound up at the ball park, where Governor Julius L. Meier tossed out the first ball.

Centrefielder Jerry Donovan gained sweet revenge on his former teammates by clouting two home runs and a double to lead Sacramento to a 5 to 2 victory at San Francisco.

Donovan, who wore a Seal uniform last year, lifted one over the fence in the opening inning with no one on base.

Winning his third game of the season, Pay Thomas hurled Los Angeles to a 6 to 0 victory over Oakland in Wrigley Field.

Great Salt Lake Course Meets Requirements For Campbell's Speed Attempt

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 18.—After making tests and surveys, William F. Sturm, United States representative of Sir Malcolm Campbell, holder of the world automobile speed record, announced here to-day that the salt flats on the shore of Great Salt Lake, 100 miles west of here, will meet the requirements for Sir Malcolm's new record attempt, which will be undertaken this summer.

Sturm said the course will stand up under the weight of Campbell's four and one-half ton machine going at a rate of 300 miles an hour.

GEORGE BURNS IS REPLACED

Resigns as Manager of Seattle Baseball Club in Favor of Dutch Reuther

Seattle, April 18.—Walter "Dutch" Reuther, veteran south-paw pitcher, to-day became acting manager of the Seattle baseball club of the Pacific Coast League, succeeding George Burns, whose resignation was requested by business manager Bill Klepper. Reuther, a former Seattle hurler, rejoined the Indians as coach yesterday.

"For the good of the Seattle Indians," we requested the resignation of Burns," Klepper stated.

The business manager of the club intimated that he decided to make the change when Burns let Bill Radonits pitch to big Smead Jolley, hard hitting Hollywood outfielder, in Seattle's debut before some 8,000 fans yesterday, with the bases filled and the ball and strike count 3 and 0.

"I am tickled to death to get the chance," Reuther commented. "Klepper tells me it's just temporary, but I hope I'll show him and Seattle baseball fans that I'm the man for the job."

Entries for the Junior Softball League will close to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. when the league will meet and make final plans for the opening of the season.

Delegates are asked to be present from the following teams: Goodwin's Grocery, Adam's Grocery, Colonist, Cyclettes, Regents, Young Liberals, Chinese Students' Association and Burnside's Poul Bays. Any other teams intending to enter are invited to have delegates present. Any persons wishing to co-operate by umpiring games are also asked to attend.

GOLF SQUADS MEET SUNDAY

Government Printing Office and Colonist Teams Will Play Special Match

Golf teams from the Colonist and the Government Printing Office will meet Sunday afternoon at the George Yale Golf Club in a special match that will mark the opening of the second nine holes of the course.

The match will start at 1 o'clock when Jack Matsen, ace southaw and leader of the Colonist crew, tees off with Bob Morrison, holder of the Uplands Club and city championships. In the feature match.

Teams and starting times, follow:
1.00—J. R. Matsen vs. Bob Morrison.
1.05—C. S. Swayne vs. H. P. Hodges.
1.10—J. L. Tait and A. Stewart vs. C. F. Banfield and H. Anderson.

1.30—E. Gallop and R. L. Pocock vs. F. Maynard and Sid Carr.
1.35—F. Milne and Sid Bowden vs. J. Wiley and C. Ferris.
1.40—R. Milne and N. Grice vs. V. J. Baines and G. Neill.
1.45—T. Willoughby and R. Thompson vs. Norm Camusa and Bill Currie.

"Social" Dictator For Famous Race Track

The royal enclosure at the Ascot race track, in England, is to have a new code to regulate admission. The Earl of Granard has been appointed "social dictator" to see that the rules of admittance are strictly adhered to. Eight pounds (640), buys a ticket to the royal enclosure where King George and Queen Mary watch the races, and an applicant can enter the turf holy of holies providing he or she has been privileged to attend royal levees or been presented at court, and has not been the guilty party in a divorce suit. Lady Granard will probably help her husband in deciding who shall or shall not enter the royal enclosure.

Vancouver Welterweight Champion's Services Are Sought For Fight With Tony Herrera in Texas in June; Mexican Is Ranked Next to Jimmy

Fort Worth, Texas, April 18.—Dick Griffin, fight promoter who has taken it on the chin in his promotion of the Ross-Herrera fight here Friday night, still is determined to bring a big time championship fight to Texas.

Griffin announced to-day he had offered Jimmy McLarnin, the Vancouver better who will fight Barney Ross in New York May 28, a guarantee of $25,000 to meet Tony Herrera in Texas in June.

"I believe that McLarnin will whip Ross, and as the National Boxing Association ranks Herrera next to McLarnin in the welterweight division, Tony is the logical challenger," Griffin explained.

In regard to the fight with Ross, the promoter said Herrera had continued his training and would be ready to meet Ross should he be here. "We have not called the fight off, and Tony will do everything to fulfill his part of the contract," Griffin said.

Chicago, April 18.—His attorneys objecting in vain, John Factor was held by the United States government to-day to await a presidential warrant which will send him back to England for trial as the alleged perpetrator of a gigantic mining stock fraud.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan dismissed a habeas corpus writ and ordered his detention.

He had done his job of testifying for the state against the Touhy gangsters sentenced to prison for abducting him; and no further effort was made to-day to defer his extradition to London, where he must face a trial for an alleged $7,000,000 coup in mining stocks.

body, make possible the practical abolition of taxation, turn the railways into money-makers, and even provide a method for dealing with the accumulated billions of railway debt, were outlined to the House of Commons Committee on Banking and Commerce yesterday.

All day, Major C. H. Douglas, widely-known author and supporter of the scheme of social credit which bears his name, held the centre of the stage in the big committee room of the Parliament Buildings. At the end of the sitting, members were still pressing forward to put questions to the economist, who had answered hundreds throughout the day with calm good nature.

Major Douglas did not give to the committee a complete outline of his social credit scheme. He did lay before its members certain proposals which he had prepared for the government of New Zealand, which he considered would be applicable in Canada. Frankly, he said if they were not acceptable, it was of little use to proceed further along the economic lines envisioned in his plans.

ARRESTING STATEMENTS
Some of the statements were arresting.

"The trouble in the world at present is not that it is a poor world," he emphasized repeatedly to his questioners. "It is a rich world. But the wealth of the world was not being used as a basis for the purchasing power which the people required."

"I don't want to take wealth from those who have it and give it to the poor," said the economist at another point. "My theory is that there is plenty of wealth without doing that. Real productive wealth should be used as a basis for money, which would thus be made available to those requiring commodities."

THE Lone Wolf's Son

By Louis Joseph Vance

"Monsieur now comprehends, beyond doubt," Captain Pascal resumed, "that it becomes my duty to make you name the thief of last night without more delay."

Lanyard, at his wit's end but determined at all costs to shield Maurice, found no more useful shift than a deprecatory shrug and a flat denial: "I am desolated, Monsieur le Capitaine, but I cannot oblige you. I was able to retrieve the jewels so speedily only by promising the thief I would never betray him."

"What! You have the effrontery to tell me you refuse to permit me to protect my passengers from the felon among them?"

"I am sorry, monsieur. It is a matter of my word of honor."

"But naturally!" Pion of the Bureau for the first time added his voice to the controversy—a mean voice, grating with innuendo. "Monsieur Lanyard doubtless means to remind us that there is honor among thieves."

"En?" The captain gave a start. "To be sure; it is, as you say, with the Lone Wolf that we have here to deal."

"An insolence, which you may be sure, Pion," Lanyard icily added, "you will duly repent."

The French detective chose to pass that off. "One has had too much to do with thieves," he pursued, addressing himself to the captain, "to repose great faith in their reformations. Once the virus gets in the blood, I assure you, there is no cure but a life sentence. Regard that M. Lanyard frankly admits he sides with crime against society."

"You hear, monsieur?" Captain Pascal grimly lowered on Lanyard. "Be grateful that I offer you this last chance—"

"And if I refuse?"

"It will become my duty to order your arrest and a search made of your effects for evidence to connect you with this crime."

CHAPTER XII

"No!" Pay Crozier cried from her pillow. "I won't have it. Please listen to me, Captain Pascal—please! I have every confidence in M. Lanyard; I have known him for years. I am sure he is incapable of doing anything dishonorable."

"Thank you, madame," Lanyard replied. "But it is better that these gentlemen should have their way—one cannot permit oneself to wear the stigma of their suspicion."

"Monsieur will perhaps be good enough," the captain snapped, "to explain what he means by that."

"Just this," Lanyard flashed in his pocket. "I demand that you place me under arrest while you rummage my luggage. There are the keys—search, then, and be—be to you!"

"Good!" Pion with a chuckle then pounced on the keys. "Now we shall see what we shall see."

"What could be more true, monsieur—or more wittily put?"

"Enough." The captain saw his duty and did not relish it. "I myself will go with M. Pion to M. Lanyard's stateroom. M. Lanyard will meantime remain here, under formal arrest. M. Dupont," he addressed the manly subaltern who had found Lanyard for him, "you will be good enough to see that the prisoner neither leaves this room nor finds any means of communicating with his confederates."

"My dear Lanyard!" As the door closed, Pay Crozier roused up among her pillows without heeding the bleat of M. Lanyard. "I am so sorry."

"Be tranquil, I beg you, madame," Lanyard sat down, smiling. "I quite understand. But—what would you?—it is truly with these small annoyances that one pays for one's mispent years."

"I suppose so." The lady sank back and accepted an offer of smelling-salts. "All the same, I do feel like the devil about it. I was too upset to think that my telling about last night might embarrass you—"

"But I am not embarrassed, merely vexed; and less than that depressed—it is always saddening to have one's faith in human stupidity confirmed."

"And it never entered my head you would hesitate to tell—"

"Nor would I, given even the least belief that the author of last night's mischief knew anything about today's."

"But that is what I can't understand. I don't see who else—"

"One has already pointed out that the means of the robbery found to be quaint himself with your secret must have been open to others."

"Heaven! Do you want me to believe this ship is simply alive with robbers after my jewels?"

"If it carries one, why not more?" To distract the woman from this disturbing thought, Lanyard asked: "Fenno, of course, knows nothing?"

"I haven't told her yet. I didn't intend to tell her I'd bought the Habeburg emeralds until I had smuggled them in."

"Ah!" Lanyard laughed. "You knew she would disapprove?"

"Ben-n-n-n." This was the double-barreled nasal affirmative that women use with those they choose to treat informally. "The child is honest. I didn't want her to fret because her mother had turned out to be a cheap old cheat. That's why I wouldn't let them send for her just now. I thought maybe everything would be all right, that you could do another magic like last night's and the affair be hushed up."

"I am sad to feel I have failed you."

"Oh, but it isn't your fault. I'm sure, if you had any idea where they had gone this time, you would get them back."

"Nothing is impossible. I may yet—given time to think."

"All right—I'll shut up and let you."

Pay Crozier took another whiff of lavender salts, Lanyard, resting his brows upon a hand, rose to collect his thoughts.

Impossible lightly to pass that one by which contemplated the contingency that Maurice, charmed by his overnight defeat, defiantly bent on proving himself the cleverer, and confidently counting on his father's silence, might have done this atrocious thing.

True, Fenno had given Lanyard in the writing-room to understand that she had just parted with Maurice; whereas the robbery had been committed, by dead reckoning, about half an hour earlier. It would have been entirely possible, notwithstanding, for Maurice to have absented himself from Fenno's side before noon for a few minutes—for long enough at least to have served his purpose.

But it was heart sickening to suppose that—

Lanyard unshakenly held his eyes suddenly to see the Captain with a formidable countenance stride in through the door, which he had thrown open without warning, and Pion sink in after him with a malicious leer.

"So, monsieur!" The Captain, halting before Lanyard, withered him with eyes of scorn, then executed a dramatic right turn, bowed most beautifully to Pay Crozier, and placed in her hands the little shagreen-bound box. "Permit me, madame, to restore your stolen property!"

Her joy was enough to lift the invalid to her feet. "But how wonderful, monsieur! Where did you find them?"

"Where but where we went to look for them, madame?" The Captain's tone quivered with contemptuous triumph; his look for Lanyard was black with righteous wrath.

"Where but in the effects of this one who claims to follow the Lone Wolf's ways no more? To be exact, then—in his steamer trunk."

Lanyard's lips parted, but his tongue festered; his mouth was all at once dry with dismay, and a stone, what could be said when he recalled the mention of the trunk of having met the son coming out of his father's stateroom.

He felt, for a thought, physically ill.

"Another time, perhaps," Pion's sneering chuckle was submitting. "Madame will not be so ready to believe in the nobility to which these brave reformed characters pretend!"

Uncle Wiggily's Sunshine

By MOWARD K. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was very fond of going out in the rain with his jolly old umbrella. He told you how he once stood out in the rain and sang; how once the Bad Chaps tried to give him a shower of sticks and stones instead of water. But that trick didn't work. And the day after the Fox and Bob Cat tried it, Mr. Longears hopped out of his bed very early and looked out of his window.

"Are you looking to see if maybe the Wolf is coming to shower you now?" asked Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, as she saw "Uncle Wig," which was what she called him, peering out.

"Oh, no, Bunty," he answered. "I just want to see if it looks like rain. I want to go out in a rain shower again with my umbrella."

"Uncle Wig is very funny," whispered Baby Bunty to Jingle and Jangle, the twin rabbit girls, as she passed them on the way to the bathroom to clean her teeth.

"He surely is, when it comes to rain," laughed Jingle.

The bunny boys and girls soon were ready for school and when Mrs. Longears saw her husband looking for rain she said:

"I hope it doesn't shower until the children get to school."

"Well, I hope that myself," said Uncle Wiggily. "But after they are safe with the Lady Mouse Teacher I hope it rains so I can go out in it with my umbrella."

But Uncle Wiggily didn't get his wish. All morning he sat on his front porch looking up at the sky for a dark cloud that might bring rain. But the sky was blue, with only little white fleecy clouds skimming over it like sheep.

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily hopped off the porch, taking his umbrella with him.

"Where are you going?" asked his wife.

"Out into the sunshine," he answered. "I am going to sit out in the grass with my umbrella up. I'll stick the end of my handle in the ground for I may be out there a long time."

"Why are you going out to sit in the sunshine under your umbrella?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"I want to bring the rain," said her husband. "I think perhaps if I raise my umbrella and sit out there in the grass with it, some cloud that is now white may see me, and knowing I want rain, may turn black and shower me."

"Oh, what a funny rabbit!" laughed Mrs. Longears.

Uncle Wiggily didn't mind being laughed at. He liked to make fun for others. So though Nurse Jennie, his wife giggled a bit, the bunny uncle took his umbrella, raised it, planted the handle in the soft turf and then he sat under it in the sun and shine, waiting for the rain to shower down.

"I just love to hear the patter of the raindrops on the roof of my umbrella," said Mr. Longears.

The sun kept on shining warmer and brighter. It was lovely sunshine. Pretty soon, Mr. Longears sat in it under his umbrella, along came two red-spotted Squiggle Bugs.

"Hello," said the first Squiggle.

"Hello," said the second Squiggle.

"Hello," said Uncle Wiggily.

"May we come under your tent and have some fun?" asked the first Squiggle Bug.

"My tent!" exclaimed Mr. Longears in surprise. "I have no tent."

"Why, you're sitting under a tent now," said the second Squiggle. "It's a lovely tent and we love tents."

"Oh, you mean my umbrella," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Yes, it does look a little like a black tent. Why, of course, come under it if you wish. I am out here waiting for rain."

"Rain," buzzed the first Squiggle. "We love the sunshine and we love being in your tent in the sunshine, Uncle Wiggily."

"And there are a lot of our brothers and sisters on the way here," said the first Squiggle. "After we saw your tent we buzzed back and told them to come along and have some fun. Here they are now!"

Just then along came crawling and flying about a thousand Squiggle Bugs. They buzzed for joy and made themselves at home under Uncle Wiggily's umbrella tent. They crawled and played about him, making up games of tag and hide-the-house until the rabbit gentleman said to himself:

"It would be a shame to have rain now and spoil the bugs' fun. For once in April I don't want a shower." He looked out. The sky was still blue. All was sunshine and so it remained until the end of the day.

The Squiggle Bugs had a lovely time, and if the small plane will drop a little chicken down to play tag with the pussy cat, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's flower-bed.

FOUR VICTIMS IN AIR CRASH
Plane Struck By Lightning
Blazes to Destruction in Texas

Associated Press
Dallas, Tex., April 18.—Struck by lightning during a severe electrical storm, a biplane crashed, carrying two women and two men to their deaths twenty miles northwest of here last evening.

The victims were Harry Fowler, Dallas; the pilot, two passengers named Jack Poole and Lillian Rhodes, and an unidentified woman.

Farmers living near the scene of the crash told of seeing the blazing ship nose into the soggy soil, explode and burn completely within a few minutes.

Police On Hunt
For Impostor
"B. Putnam," Who Gulled
Movie Actors at Hollywood,
Is Object of Search

By M. A. Raiser
Associated Press Correspondent
San Francisco, April 18.—A young man who rose from a start in life as a dish washer to a position of prominence in the world was sought today by Dutch police, who accused him of being an international impostor.

Efforts to apprehend the man were begun by the consul-general of the Netherlands here, Dr. H. A. Van Cooten, who said he was asked by Dutch police on charges of fraud and burglary.

Dr. Edward Oscar Heinrich of Berkeley, noted crime writer, was asked by Inspector R. W. Beckman of the Rotterdam police to locate the suspect, who allegedly goes under the alias of "Barnard Putnam."

AT OLYMPIC GAMES
"Putnam" cut quite a figure at the Olympic Games in Los Angeles, in 1932. Dr. Heinrich said, by claiming he had suffered an injury to his neck, which forced him to "cover" the games from a stretcher for the "Holland Daily News."

Inspector Beckman, however, informed Dr. Heinrich there is no such paper and that "Putnam" had hoaxed the many film stars and city officials of Los Angeles who showered him with sympathy.

Among the stars who were deceived by the alleged impostor's glib tongue, Dr. Heinrich said, were Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Eric von Stroheim, the noted director, who posed with "Putnam" as he reclined in a chair in a special ambulance.

Other stars who allegedly befriended the man were Charles Chaplin, Claudette Colbert, Clive Brook, Marlene Dietrich and Jeanette MacDonald. Their photographs were found in his effects, Inspector Beckman said, when he had fled after allegedly burglarizing the home of a Dutch hotelkeeper.

IN WAR DAYS
The hotelkeeper had employed a youth named Pieter Jaarsma, sixteen years old, during the World War. One day the boy turned aside his disfigure and said he was going to the United States to seek his fortune.

For sixteen years no word was heard from him, until one day he returned and told his former employer he had accumulated a fortune. The hotelkeeper gave the presentable youth a special guest room. Later the young man, Beckman said, robbed his benefactor's home of 1,000 guilders and clothing.

Dutch police at one time almost apprehended "Putnam," and in his trunk they found the film stars' photographs and albums entitled "Seals of Peace," which bore the autographs of Premier Mussolini, Herbert Hoover, President Roosevelt and other famous persons. There also were found a promise by the Prince of Wales to give "Putnam" his autograph, and special papers marked "reserved" for Albert, King of the Belgians and Jimmy Walker.

SAILS SOUTH THIS EVENING

Ss. Dorothy Alexander to Take Good List of Passengers Out at Midnight

Bound for San Francisco and Los Angeles, the Ss. Dorothy Alexander, of the Pacific Steamship Lines, will sail from Victoria at midnight, with a good list of passengers and a heavy general cargo. Capt. Frank Landstrom will be on the bridge.

Cargo to be loaded here including a parcel of raw silk left yesterday morning from Japan by the Ss. President Jackson. At San Francisco this cargo will be put aboard a Dollar liner and shipped through the Panama Canal to New York.

Booked at the Inyon office for tonight's sailing are Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Stuart, Miss Kathleen Ringshaw, going to San Francisco to spend six weeks; Mrs. G. Morgan, returning to her home in San Francisco; William Chilton, Mrs. Emma Feuerhelm, who arrived from the south by the Dorothy Monday night; Miss E. A. Allen and Mrs. W. Hind.

Among the passengers who arrived from Vancouver this afternoon, to join the Dorothy, were Harry Robinson, of the Vancouver office of the United States Immigration service, en route to southern California, and the grand Canyon of Colorado, accompanied by Mrs. Rowbottom; Mrs. L. Brain, going to Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Rourke.

CRUISE LINER AT HONOLULU

Ss. Empress of Britain Arrives From Japan; Mid-Pacific Port Busy Place

Honolulu, April 18.—Hundreds of citizens and visitors from many parts of the world flocked to the Aloha Tower and dock this morning to welcome the great Canadian world cruising liner Empress of Britain on her third voyage around the world.

She arrived at midnight this morning from Japan, and will leave on Friday evening for Hilo. The Royal Hawaiian had been in attendance as the Empress slowly made her way up the harbor, after passing quarantine outside the breakwater. Planes from Pearl Harbor swooped over her, and diving boys amused the passengers, who threw coins into the blue waters at them.

Half an hour after the Empress was docked her passengers poured ashore and took yachting motor cars for trips about the island of Oahu and to Waikiki Beach, where luncheon was enjoyed at the Royal Hawaiian and Moana Hotels. This evening an elaborate entertainment is arranged for the world-tour passengers.

To-morrow a sister ship, the Empress of Japan, will arrive here from Vancouver, bringing with her a crowd of passengers. To-morrow morning the Japanese motorship Chichibu Maru is due here on her way from the Orient to San Francisco, and on Friday morning the President Adams is expected on her way around the world. The Mariposa is also here, en route to California from the South Sea.

MANY VESSELS AT VANCOUVER

Spring Landslides in Mountains Delay Ss. Gaelic Star at New Westminster

Vancouver, April 18.—Canadian Transport Co. Limited reports motorship Gaelic Star, en route from Halifax with a full cargo of eastern Canadian products. She will load outwards for the West Indies.

Ss. Golden Bear has arrived to Dingwall City and Company to load freight for Australia. Capt. M. Olsen is in command.

Ss. Gaelic Star, Capt. O. C. Roberts, of the Blue Star Line, has been tied to American Mail Line and is on the Fraser River to load 2,500 tons of bar metal, frozen fish and general cargo for the United Kingdom. She will sail this week via Seattle and Tacoma. The ship is delayed at New Westminster to some extent, because of landslides in the mountains.

The Harvey Shipping Company Ltd. reports the British freighter Antigone, Capt. B. M. Stephen, arrived from Cuba with a full cargo of raw sugar for the refinery. The ship made a good passage up from the sugar port. She will load full, outward, from Portland for United Kingdom-Continental.

Balfour Guthrie and Company Ltd. reports motorship Polaris arrived yesterday afternoon to Dowdell and Company, and berthed at 8 o'clock at Bannatyne Pier.

The American Mail Line reports Ss. Seattle, of Tacoma-Orient Line, due at New Westminster this evening and here to-morrow.

Ss. PENNYWORTH WILL BE SOLD

Quebec, April 18.—The Ss. Pennyworth, forced ashore by ice last fall on the island of Orleans, is being offered for sale by her agents, the Montreal Shipping Company. Notices to-day request tenders for the purchase of the vessel which is stranded on the spot where she grounded in November.

San Francisco, April 18.—With a propeller damaged, the British steamship Trevelyan, en route here, yesterday from New York, and was taken immediately to the General Engineering Company drydock in Oakland. Details of the trouble were lacking, but it was not considered serious. Another vessel with propeller trouble, the little steam schooner Wapama, was also in port.

BRITISH SHIP LOADS LUMBER

Ss. Anglo Peruvian Here To-day For 900,000 Feet For United Kingdom

The British freighter, Anglo Peruvian, one of a great fleet of "Anglo" freighters operated to all parts of the world by the Nitrate Producers' Steamship Company of London, is at the Ogden Point piers to-day loading a parcel of 900,000 feet of Vancouver Island timber for the United Kingdom.

She docked late yesterday evening and will be here until Friday morning.

Another of the fleet, the Anglo Australian, is now bound up the coast and will be here early next week to load a cargo of lumber. Other ships of this well-known fleet are the Anglo African, the Anglo Canadian, the Anglo Chilean, the Anglo Columbian, the Anglo Indian, the Anglo Norse, the Anglo Saxon and the Anglo Swede.

The ship at Ogden Point to-day was built in 1926 at the Sunderland plant of Short Brothers. She is registered at 5,475 tons, with a length of 426 feet, beam of fifty-eight feet and a depth of twenty-six feet.

Inbound from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu, the Canadian Australasian liner Niagara will reach William Head quarantine station to-morrow evening at 9 o'clock, Capt. T. Hill this morning advised the local C.P.R. office. The ship is running twelve hours ahead of schedule. She is bringing in a large list of passengers, including many Australian and New Zealand residents en route to England for the summer months. Yesterday evening at 8 o'clock the Niagara was 727 miles away from Victoria.

With 100 tons of general cargo for this port, the Donaldson freighter Moveria reached Rithet piers this morning shortly after 11 o'clock. Yesterday evening she left for Vancouver early this afternoon.

To-morrow morning the Royal Mail liner Loch Monar is due here from England and London via the Panama Canal and California ports.

Bound across the North Pacific for Victoria the Blue Pinnace, a Protolaska, was 1,600 miles out from Victoria, according to a report received at the Gonzales wireless station yesterday evening. She is expected here at 8 o'clock Saturday evening. She is bringing passengers and cargo for Victoria and for transport to the Orient-bound liner Empress of Russia, which will sail early in the evening.

On her way from New York, the Grace liner Santa Paula reached San Francisco to-day and will sail from here to-morrow for Victoria. She is expected here at 8 o'clock Saturday evening. She is bringing passengers and cargo for Victoria and for transport to the Orient-bound liner Empress of Russia, which will sail early in the evening.
